vided at the present time and a bitter contest is on between those friendly to President Roosevelt and his policies and those opposed. From the White House, as the Washington wires announce, comes the news that the Administration does not object to public announcement of the breach, and more, is quite ready to battle for control of the national convention in order to bring about the nomination of a man in sympathy with its policies. As a result the country is on the eve of a political contest such as has seldom been witnessed before. It is apt to be one of personalities as well as principles. There will figure one on one side Roosevelt; on the other Foraker, Aldrich, Harriman and the rest of the conservatives. The Administration is probably more anxious for the personality of the President to be an issue in the contest than the conservatives are for Foraker, Aldrich and Harriman to be mentioned. The reason why is quite obvious. While Mr. Roosevelt is popular with the mass of the people, it is a matter of general knowledge that neither Foraker, Aldrich or Harriman are. To make these three men an issue would therefore be a clever stroke of politics on the part of the Administration. It would considerably weaken the conservative side. Whether they can eliminate themselves from the fight as dominant figures is of course the question.

Publication Timely.

The publication of the letter at this time has interested the political world. Its theft by a former stenographer of Mr. Harriman has been a subject of discussion and, with apologies to the railroad king, your correspondent thinks that a few facts in connection with the incident might be of interest as strange coincidences. The publication was very timely. First, there was "the panic" in Wall street, and much pressure brought to bear on President Roosevelt to alter his position on the subject of railroads and trusts, and also to call off the hostile Legislatures of the other States. Following this came the challenge of Senator Foraker in Ohio. Now, while all this is still in the public mind, comes the letter. The publication in the World is not without significance. That paper is, of course, Democratic, but outside of partisan affairs, where a line-up is necessary, it has not been unfriendly to Gov. Odell. Not so long ago, when he was State boss, and the Sun and other papers and individuals were throwing mud at him, it was through the columns of the World that Gov. Odell defended himself. During the insurance scandal the World was able to publish many disclosures in advance of the other papers, and the statement was made at the time that this was due to the Odell-Harriman influence.

Looked On With Suspicion.

As a result there are some here who look with some suspicion upon the story of the letter being stolen. Their idea is that it was printed with full knowledge of the foes of the President for the purpose of injuring him as much as possible and as a conservative Republican campaign document. A leader friendly to Mr. Roosevelt believes that the fighting has been forced by the conservative wing for the purpose of making the President come out and declare himself on the third term question. There is a suspicion on the part of the financial world that he might accept another nomination in the event of his forces controlling the next National Convention and not being enthusiastically united upon any candidate. But by forcing the fight at this early day the President, in accepting the gaudier, will still be obliged to enter the field himself or name another as the representative of his policies. The conservative wing is also said to realize the strength of Mr. Roosevelt with the masses. There are some who believe that if the President stands for a third term he will be impossible to defeat him at the National Convention; that even the tradition against it will not avail, as it did in the case of Grant.

For in such radical times as these no one represents the spirit of them as well as Theodore Roosevelt. Such a statement was recently made by a Wall street man at the Waldorf cafe the night following the publication of the Harriman letter. Other anti-Roosevelt people believe that any desire for a third term will kill off the President. That his encouragement upon the Convention, his general impetuosity, added to this reputation of the pledge made by him on the night of his election in 1904 will turn the tide against him. Even some of the warmest supporters of the administration and its policies would oppose his re-election.

To return again to the question so often discussed, now the paramount one of the hour, whether Mr. Roosevelt will stand for a third term. The general impression in political circles here is that he will under certain conditions. By that is meant if his personality as well as his policies suffer too much criticism at the hands of the conservatives and if the President believes that he is the only man strong enough to hold the radical forces in line.

Created the Situation.

Many here think that such will be the case. Those opposed to Mr. Roosevelt go to the extent of asserting that the President has deliberately created this situation so as to bring about his re-nomination. This, of course, his officials deny. In fact they urge that he stand again for office without repudiating his declaration of 1904. This, upon the ground that when it was made, the country was in no such situation as it is to-day, and the highest dictates of patriotism then demanded that he should not serve for a third term. But in view of the present conditions, the economic problems of vital import, it is to our interest that the man responsible for them should carry them through.

Politicians here wonder what the attitude of Secretary Taft will be on the subject. It is unquestionably a fact that he seeks the nomination. Were the case otherwise it is not believed that he would have declined the appointment to the Federal bench. The fact is also generally assumed that he is the candidate of Mr. Roosevelt. Will he allow himself to be used as a still-bird house? There are many who think he will not and that if the President attempts this, the friends of the Secretary will line up with the opposition. But on the other hand, leaders here believe that if Mr. Taft realizes that Roosevelt alone can defeat the conservatives, he will cheerfully forego his aspirations.

EFFORTS TO ARBITRATE SHIP-BUILDING STRIKE.

Labor Representatives Urge the Strikers to Stand Out—Settlement Urged.

Louis, O., April 6.—Arbitration which was attempted as a possible means of settlement of the strike at the yards of the American Shipbuilding Company did not succeed to-day, but a renewed attempt will be made Monday by a committee of men working inside the company's plant, and that double that number will be at work Monday.

C. A. Vandover, Thomas Murrah and other labor representatives are urging the strikers to stand out and not to accept either arbitration or a return to work under present circumstances. Dr. Van Nuys, of this city, who is at the head of one of the civic organizations in which most of the strikers are enrolled as members, came out to-night strongly in favor of arbitration and a settlement of the strike.

PLAN TO MAKE KENTUCKY DAYS AT JAMESTOWN BIG.

Post D, Travelers' Protective Association, Preparing to Take Monster Delegation to Fair.

The first meeting of the new Board of Directors of Post D, Travelers' Protective Association, was held yesterday afternoon. J. M. Dyer, president of the Post D, Louisville, was the board president. The post will make an effort to increase the membership from 600 to 1,000 during the coming summer. A large delegation from the Louisville order will go to the State convention at Paducah May 11, at which time a committee will be selected to attend the national convention at Norfolk, Va., June 11.

One of the most important matters now before the State Association is the effort to recruit a monster delegation to attend the Jamestown Exposition on Kentucky and Louisville days, July 5-9, and to that end a committee composed of President Carl H. Pinck, of the State Association, and President Dyer, of Post D, will confer with the various posts of the association in the State and make plans for a large delegation to the exposition. The meeting yesterday was largely attended and the members are enthusiastic over the future outlook of the organization.

Unauthorized "Inspector." Charges of disorderly conduct, Mrs. Myra Garlick, of 150 Fifth street, yesterday morning, were out for a warrant for his arrest. For almost an hour yesterday morning Garlick wandered up and down Market street, "inspecting" the corners of buildings and packages of pedestrians, saying that he was an "inspector," and FOURTEENTH ANNIVERSARY OF WEDDING BRINGS DEATH.

Thomas Dudley Neel, a well-known brakeman on the passenger trains between Louisville and Cincinnati, died of uraemic poisoning at 12:30 o'clock yesterday morning at his home, 102 East Gray street. Death came after an illness of six weeks and on the anniversary of the fourteenth year of his marriage.

Mr. Neel was forty-eight years of age and was a native of Pennsylvania, though he removed to Louisville with his parents when he was a boy. After completing his education here he went to work for the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company in the capacity of a brakeman. He is survived by his wife, who was Miss Iva

COMES BACK AFTER MANY YEARS TO FIND WIFE TWICE MARRIED

Woman Believes Him Dead and Weds Again—Now Insane Over Thought of Two Sets of Children.

Ashtland, Ky., April 6.—[Special.]—Alexander Van Wyth and his wife have been reunited after thirty-five years' separation, but no joy comes of the reunion, for as a result of it the wife is a raving madwoman and two families of children are made illegitimate. The story, at the same time, is thoroughly unique and one of the most interesting ever written from fact.

Thirty-six years ago Alexander Van Wyth met pretty Ella Feynman at a country dance among the mountains of Kentucky. Love developed and after a short courtship the lovers were made man and wife. With the passing of the months the beautiful Kentucky girl became a mother. Then began the tragedy that has had such an astounding finale. Suddenly Van Wyth disappeared on a mission that even his wife did not seem to share. For years she searched for him, but to no avail. Circumstances threw him into the navy and he wrote his young wife, frequently sending her money. Then his letters ceased and the girl-wife and mother received news that her husband was dead, having been shot down by the mate of the ship on which he entered service.

Marries Second Time.

For a time she refused to believe it, then surrendered all hope, and began life anew. Then Herbert Pyle, of Wirt county, W. Va., entered into her life and love bloomed again where she had believed it was dead. They were married in a little country parsonage. Five children were born to them.

One day Pyle was taken ill and died in the chair of the parsonage, to a madhouse, or to be let loose again on society, for the cruelty of judicial looked into the eyes of Elmer Wyatt after some time, and found there love, and they were married. Then began the rearing of other little ones. There was nothing left to remind her of the love of her childhood days save a daughter who resides in Columbus, O., and her life had settled into peace at last, she believed.

Stranger Blasts.

Suddenly everything was broken, hope destroyed and the unfolding of a tragedy that wrecked her mind and tore the fair names from her children began. One day a man called at the Wyatt home. He told her a story of adventure, of his long search for his loved ones when he had returned to America, whose removal from the old home had made vain. She faintly before he had finished his story. Upon her reviving he told her his love for her had brought him back, and that he would not interfere.

He had, he said, become a rich man during his travels. Upon the strength of this he borrowed $200 from his wife's third husband. He came to the city and was followed soon after by a son of Mrs. Van Wyth, who threatened to kill him if he did not leave at once and never return. He disappeared and has not been heard of since. Soon after his departure Mrs. Wyatt became a raving madman and has been confined in the asylum.

The pitiful tale was unfolded after an investigation by the County Attorney, who has been the thrust of young Pyle to kill Van Wyth.

HOUSED TO INSANITY SAYS LONDON PAPER.

"Yellow" View of Thaw's Ordeal Taken By British Editor.

[London Standard.] We hold no brief for or against Thaw, and do not desire to make indiscreet comment on the great case that has convulsed the States. Whether Thaw is mad or sane, or whether his act can be justified, is not for us to decide. But the melodramatic incident which has set for the time a term to the protracted proceedings by which Thaw is to be hurried to the chair of execution, or to a madhouse, or to be let loose again on society, for the cruelty of judicial not its character and conduct been such as would topple the surest mind off the base of sanity? He has had to listen to his wife's appalling evidence, he has been kept continually on the edge of doubt and uncertainty. The prosecution has tried one way and another, has dogged about from one line of attack to another, has flinched and thrust with all the skill and all the pleasure in that skill of a master of fence, until the prisoner must be bewildered and shaken. He has sat in the court, the figure-head of the battle, while his counsel fought on abstract technicalities with their opponents, and he has realized, if there be any sanity in him, that he is the central figure of a gladiatorial show on which the million eyes of morbid curiosity throughout the "civilized" world are fixed with that ferocious stare that lit the tiers of seats above the arena of Imperial Rome. And then, when at last the miserable creature has been reduced by all this wrangling and hustling for his life and liberty to a condition of nervous despair bordering on imbecility, up jumps the prosecutor, and with melodramatic finger points to the twitching figure in the dock and cries, "Look! see if this creature is sane or not! Is he not a madman, if not for a court of law but for an asylum?" hurrying him at the end to the living death which is more intolerable than a short circuit. Thus does the domestic act, proving its descent and origin in savagery, play with the trembling mouse. And this spectacle is the crown and summit of a public prosecution in a court of justice which men will call just and fair, able and brilliant. This kind of thing is the best result, in a progressive country, of efforts to force in pursuit of the perfectibility of human institutions.

Surely it is neither squeamish nor neurotic to be horrified by this cruelty of the law? But when one tries to think of remedy for such a state of affairs, misgivings and difficulties at once arise. Society must be protected, and its protection involves the public prosecutor's work. On the other hand, liberty and equity demand that a prisoner should have the advantage of the ablest defense that he can summon to his aid. From this inevitably follows the pitched battle of rhetoric and argument between two keen minds striving for advantage and points, and the public prosecution by the State—which in Utopia would be calm, judicial and unembittered—becomes at once vindictive and cruel. The machinery of the law postulates the profession of the bar, and barristers are neither superhuman nor mechanical. Their way is to make, by their reputation to earn, like those of any other profession or calling, and if professional keenness obscures their eyes the true proportions of the figure of Justice, if in the enthusiasm of the legal fight the prisoner becomes a pawn and mercy an attribute to God, with which the courts have no concern, what else can be expected in a very human and imperfect world as Mr. Jerome in the Thaw trial, has been vindictive and cruel to be brilliant. 'Tis not so much the law as the man who is the danger to society. He is there to secure a conviction, and he is entitled to use all the arts he knows to gain his end. It is not he alone who has tortured Thaw. Mr. DeLoach has beaten the truth which Mr. Jerome has applied. The keener the defense the keener the prosecution, the more artful or able the man the more artful and able the other. So that the prisoner in a cause which would escape, innocent or guilty, must submit to a preliminary torture which might well unhinge or unbalance a mind more healthy and steady than any ever shown by Thaw.

Wintersmith's Tonic tones up the system. Now is the time to take it.

PRISON CONVERTS

Will Be Baptized In Tank Behind High Walls.

THIRTY-TWO CONVICTS PRO-FESS THEIR FAITH.

CHURCH IN STATE PENITENTIARY IN GOOD CONDITION.

CHAPLAIN'S WORK OF LOVE.

Frankfort, Ky., April 6.—[Special.]—The Kentucky penitentiary to-morrow will be the scene of a baptism, conducted by the Rev. Joseph F. Seaver, chaplain of the institution, at which thirty-two of the convicts, who have professed faith, will be immersed. The day will be a big one with the six hundred or more prisoners who, of the total 1,800, attend religious exercises regularly on Sundays in the little chapel, and who are ministered to by the vigorous young chaplain. Not in years have so many of the inmates of the prison united with the church at one time.

A large tank has been arranged in the prison yard just in front of the door of the chapel, and Dr. Seaver will be assisted in his labor of love by prison inmates who are connected with the chapel, and help him in his work from day to day among their fellow prisoners. The baptismal exercises will occupy the morning, and in the afternoon the convicts will hear a lecture by the Rev. Dr. Hugh McClelland, of Richmond, an evangelist of the Christian church.

Roster of Converts.

The roster of the convicts to be baptized does not contain the name of any of the noted prisoners of the institution. Several well-known mount-tain characters, sent up as result of feud troubles, are already united with the church, as are Henry Youtsey and Jim Howard, the Goebel murder prisoners. Curtis Jett, of Breathitt county, formerly, has not professed faith and rarely attends chapel. Those to be baptized, among them several Louisville prisoners, are: Hardin Mallico, of Jackson county; Bert Green of Bath; Reuben York, of Clinton; John Phipps, of Johnson; Richard Watkins, of Wolfe; Levi Clark, of Nicholas; Garrison, of Leslie; Abner McQueen, of Lee; W. C. Aldine, of Elliott; Pross Branham, of Bell; Albert Burton, of Adair; Chat Montgomery, of Johnson; Leander Hodge, of Montgomery; Akors of Winn; William Carter, of Cumberland; James Smith, of Anderson; J. C. Scott, of Lewis; Henan Atkins, of Pike; William Combs, of Bell, and William Hunter, of Jessamine, and the following negroes: John Porter, of Breathitt county; Strother Hamilton, of Montgomery; John Bonds, of Jefferson; Rube Parker, of Jefferson; Edith Miller, of Fayette; George Johnson, of Jefferson; Adolph Hatchett, of Mercer; William Carter, of Cumberland; William Williams, of Kenton; Edward Stone, of Adair; J. Thomas, of Boyd; William Welch, of Johnson, and Oscar Gray, of Nicholas county.

Fifty Members of Church.

Dr. Seaver, the chaplain, has his heart set on the work in which he is engaged in the penitentiary here. Since he became chaplain, a few months since, there have been more than fifty additions to the little chapel, and he says that he feels that he is accomplishing more in his present station than he did when in charge of any church which he has filled in different sections of the State. There are two Christian Endeavor Societies in the prison, one for white men and another for colored inmates, both of which have large membership. The average attendance at religious exercises is about six hundred, and on Sunday classes are formed to teach the illiterate to read and to write. The chaplain spends every day within the walls of the prison, going about among the men at work in the shops, and ministering to those who are ill.

O. M. Brown, of Metcalfe county, an inmate of the prison, who is an assistant in the library, in connection with the chapel, says that the chaplain has done much to encourage the inmates, and that about 65 per cent. of the prisoners are now able to read and write. He says that the prisoners come with all their troubles to the chaplain, and his opportunities for doing good are very great. Brown, who is an Oberlin College graduate, conducts a class for the training of prisoners in reading and writing, and says that on Sundays his class never numbers less than forty men.

TROLLEY SLEEPING CARS.

[St. Louis Globe Democrat.] Sleeping on the trolley cars while gliding through the Corn Belt country of Illinois is growing popular, and the experiment the McKinley line made of installing sleeping car service between East St. Louis and Decatur, Ill., will no doubt prove an attractive feature of this transverse service. Trolley lines have tried to run sleeping cars before, with only moderate success, principally because the routes were not long enough. In Indiana it was tried on a line where the patrons could scarcely get over forty winks before being awakened at the end of the line. The McKinley service leaves East St. Louis at midnight and reaches Springfield at 4:30 a. m. Four hours' sleep and being put off the car in the cold gray dawn does not appeal strongly to patrons of the road, so the car rolls on a sliding and remains until 8 o'clock. Then the Springfield passengers are "routed out of the hay" and separated from their goosehair pillows, while the passengers for Decatur or intermediate points are allowed to dream on. From Springfield to Decatur the time is about an hour and a half, so the passengers for that point can sleep. The trolley sleeper has the advantages of exhibition while preparing for bed or dressing in the morning.

IT WAS A LONG CHASE.

[Galveston News.] After more logs had been thrown on the fire and pipes lighted, the talk drifted around to the middle fork of the American river and the country round about. "The strongest remembrance I have of that country is of the big grizzly that chased me out," said Billy Bailey. "I was a pickin' wild strawberries up on the side of a mountain when some pebbles, dirt and one thing and another Brought To Louisville For Burial.

The burial of Miss Florence T. Johnston, who died at her home in Barcroft, Va., April 1, took place yesterday afternoon in Cave Hill cemetery. Her body was placed beside that of her father, Judge George W. Johnston, of Louisville. The funeral service was conducted by the Rev. Dr. Minnigrode, of Calvary church. The body was accompanied to this city by her brother-in-law, Judge Charles F.

and out on the ice. So did the bear, but not far out. He went through an ice-cream parlor, and I looked at him. I was afeared he would. "Oh, you said you was pickin' strawberries," he said. "I was; so I was; but I didn't tell all the story, for it would be too long. That bear chased me from August to January."

come a-clatterin' down; you all know how it is on a side hill when something heavy's movin' about you. I looked up, and s'elp me if there wasn't a whoopin' big grizzly a-stalkin' me; yes, sir, doin' the sneek act right up on me. You ought to see me go down the mountain; I'll bet my tracks was a red apart, and in some places I didn't leave no tracks—I jest notcherally went through the air. But that bear was hittin' only the high places, too, and the faster I went the faster he come. I could hear his 'whoof' right behind me, an' sometimes I believed I felt his hot breath on the back of my neck. But I fooled him good and plenty."

Sensational Silk Sale.

Beautiful Sarments Attractively Priced.

This week's offering here will prove beyond question our positive and absolute leadership as Ladies' Garment Specialists.

SILK GARMENTS ARE PRE-EMINENT THIS SEASON. Silk prices have soared beyond all expectation. The demand is unprecedented, and good grades practically unobtainable.

In the face of all these conditions, with characteristic enterprise, we have assembled a variety of exquisite Silk Garments, more extensive and more beautiful than was ever shown in a single Louisville store. Best and most interesting of all is the fact that OUR PRICES are even lower than heretofore.

Our business is to anticipate the wants of our patrons, to forecast fashions and to know what's what in ladies' attire. As caterers for sixteen years to the wants of Kentucky's most particular dressers we are in a better position than any concern hereabouts to judge the coming modes and prepare accordingly.

This we have done with the result that the Silk Garment values here will simply astound you. Note the following quotations and come to-morrow.

Silk Shirt-Waist Suit.
$11.85 Ladies' Two-piece Dress of Taffeta silk, fancy checks, stripes and plaids. Lace yoke of baby Irish. Plaited and tucked skirt with girde at top.

ROOSEVELT

FORMAL PROGRAMME FOR OPENING DAY ANNOUNCED.

KENTUCKY COMMISSIONERS ARE AMONG GUESTS OF HONOR.

BOONE FORT LOGS SHIPPED.

Norfolk, Va., April 6.—[Special.]—Announcement was made today of the official programme for the opening of the Jamestown Exposition on April 28 in commemoration of the ter-centennial of the first permanent English settlement in America. President Roosevelt will be the central figure in the ceremonies and official representatives of the visitors from every country and every State in the Union will be in attendance. Expectations are raised that on this occasion will probably be heard one of the most important speeches in President Roosevelt's career, it being a short time ago reported that he might take the opportunity to formally place before the public his views on railroad and other important questions now commanding national interest.

President John B. Atkinson and other members of the Kentucky Commission, are included among the special guests invited to the opening ceremonies. Secretary Sheppard, of the Exposition Company, stated to-night that Gov. Beckham would probably not attend, though the chief executive of Kentucky will be here on "Kentucky Day," July 5. Work on the Kentucky building is progressing rapidly and it is believed the main part of the structure will be completed by April 26.

Salute For a Starter.

The formalities of the opening day of the World's Fair, which is to continue for the next seven months, will begin at sunrise with a salute by the Norfolk Light Artillery Blues. The President will reach the exposition grounds at 11:30 o'clock, after passing on the Mayflower through columns of saluting foreign and American warships in Hampton Roads. He will be escorted to the reviewing stand on Lee's parade, in the rear of the Auditorium building. The speech-making feature of the programme will begin at once, and in the open air should the weather permit. An invocation by the Rt. Rev. Fred McGill Randolph, bishop of the diocese of Southern Virginia, and a brief introductory address by Harry St. George Tucker, president of the exposition, will precede the president's remarks.

Will Press a Button.

When the President has concluded he will press a gold button and immediately the machinery of the great show will be in motion, a thousand flags will be unfurled on the exposition buildings, a salute to the nation will be fired by the foreign and American ships in the Roads and by the garrison at Fort Monroe.

At the conclusion of the salute the exposition bands will play "The Star Spangled Banner," the troops will "present arms," and the discourse will stand with uncovered heads. The parade of soldiers and sailors of the United States, under Maj. Gen. Frederick D. Grant, will be the next feature. The President will review the parade from a grand stand, where also will be gathered the honored guests of the occasion, including a diplomatic corps, the official committee of the Senate and House of Representatives, and the Governors of States, twenty of whom have accepted invitations to be present. The day will close with a reception to President Roosevelt between 5 and 6 o'clock.

LAST LOGS ON THE WAY.

Kentucky Building Will Be Nearly Complete On Opening Day.

AN log for use in the construction of the Port of Boonesboro, Kentucky's building at the Jamestown Exposition, have been shipped, and the progress of the construction of the building is so far advanced that the major portion of the log will be in place by the opening of the exposition on April 28. The last log passed through Louisville yesterday, coming from Warren county. A few days previous a car containing 100 logs had been sent from Boyd county, where they were collected by Col. Douglas Putnam. C. T. Holzner, contractor for the Kentucky building, announced several days ago that the central log houses, or the main assembling place, will be ready in ample time for the opening. The more or less congested condition of the freight yards at Norfolk may cause a delay in completing the remaining four log houses and the stockpile by the opening day of the World's Fair.

It has been the promise of the Kentucky Commission that there will be plenty of room for visitors. Chairs and settees will be found everywhere within the stockpile, and as many as 600 persons can find seats at one time. Rustic furniture will be used in the Kentucky building, and large and comfortable hickory chairs will be found on the broad piazzas running the full length of the main cabins. Two flag staffs have been arranged for. These will mount to a height of about seventy feet and from one will float the Stars and Stripes, and from the other the flag of Kentucky. Mrs. Will S. Hays, of this city, has generously contributed to the Kentucky Commission a handsome flag which will be used for decorative purposes inside one of the main log houses. Mrs. Jeanie R. Morris, of Sulphur, Ky., has loaned to the State building a centerpiece made in the pioneer days of Kentucky. It is over 100 years old, and will be used to decorate the place of one room. The bedstead is at least seventy-five years old, and the original price paid for it was "a cow, a calf and a pet deer." This piece of furniture was secured through Mrs. Jennie Lester Hill, of Berea College.

WHY MARK DIDN'T TALK.

[North American Review.]
 A couple of days ago a gentleman called upon me with a message (from the German Emperor) "I think it a shame that you have not spoken to your wife for fifteen years. How do you explain it? How do you justify it?"
 "I didn't want to interrupt her," he would not have suffered from my silence, he would only have suffered from the sorrows of his own solitude. If I were not too old to travel I would go to Berlin and introduce the etiquette of my own table, which tallies with the etiquette observed at other royal tables. I would give me a change; then I would courtously waive rank and do all the talking myself. I think his majesty for his kind message, and an proud to have it and glad to express my sincere reciprocation of its sentiments.

PETTUS KICKS.

Seriously Objects To Hundley's Appointment.

SAYS HE IS NOT FIT FOR THE ALABAMA JOB.

TAFT SENDS WORD FOR SENATOR BLACKBURN TO WAIT.

BARON STERNBURG TO SAIL.

Washington, April 6.—[Special.]—Senator Pettus, of Alabama, today told the President that there was serious objection in Alabama among Democrats and Republicans both—to the appointment of Oscar Hundley, of Hummelville, as the new Federal Judge for that State, authorized by the last Congress.

"Hundley is not fit for the job," said the Alabama Senator. "I know that myself, as I know the man, and I am not talking from hearsay. There is not only strong opposition now, but this opposition will continue when the name has to be sent to the Senate."

"It is true that the Democrats have submitted to the President the names of a number of prominent men of that faith, but that is no reason why they oppose the naming of Hundley. They have no objection to the President naming a Republican if he sees fit, but they want the Republican to be a man competent to fill the position and without other serious objections."

"There are several Republicans mentioned whose appointment would be satisfactory to all classes of people. For instance, there is Mr. Smith, of Birmingham; Mr. C. G. Wall, of H. Smith, of our State. Ex-Gov. Smith, although an Alabama man, went into the Civil War as a Federal soldier and fought for the Union throughout. His example was almost without a parallel in the far South. He went back to his home State at the close of the war and was elected Governor in reconstruction times. Such a history as his would ordinarily result in ill feeling, but he was a high-class man, and so his family.

"The appointment will be made some time next week. It is understood here that the President has promised the judgeship to Hundley, but in view of the protests pouring in from every point in the new district, there is just a bare chance that he will change his mind."

Former Senator Blackburn, who was to have sailed for the isthmus to-morrow, to-night received a cablegram from Secretary Taft directing him to remain in Washington until he returns to this country, as he desires to consult with him about canal matters. The Secretary will return in about ten days.

The President has taken up the complaints affecting the commissary in the department of the Isthmus of Panama that have come to him as a result of recent visits of members of Congress. He has assured his callers that the allegations affecting graft in that department and other complaints shall be looked into promptly and all will be set right.

Baron von Sternburg, the German Ambassador, called at the State Department to-day to say good-bye to Secretary Root and the other officials before returning to Germany on a short visit to his ancestral estates in Saxony. He expects to sail from New York April 8, accompanied by Baron von Sternburg, and will return to America about the first of July.

REED SMOOT SAYS.

When the Women At Washington Found He Wasn't a Polygamist.

Salt Lake City, April 6.—In addressing the General Conference of the Church of Latter Day Saints to-day upon correct Christian living Apostle Reed Smoot touched briefly on the recent contest that resulted in the decision entitling him to retain his seat as United States Senator from Utah. He said that in Washington he had talked with a number of women who formerly had been leaders in the agitation against him, and that he had been assured by them that their sole reason for hostility to him was their belief that he was a polygamist. Having learned that this was an error, the women, Senator Smoot said, promised to do all in their power to counteract the effect of their fight against him.

Back-ache is one of the mean things about Grip. It may come between the shoulder blades, extend through to the chest, or shoot down to the Kidneys and take the form of Lumbago and lame you so that you cannot walk, stand or lie still. AUTO OWNERS PLAN STATE ASSOCIATION.

WILL CONSIDER PROJECT AT ANNUAL MEETING THURSDAY.

WANT THIRD AVENUE MADE INTO BOULEVARD ALSO.

TALK TOUR TO LEXINGTON.

At the annual meeting of the Louisville Automobile Club, Thursday evening, the election of officers will be held and matters of importance to the organization will be considered. One of these is the proposed formation of a Louisville Automobile Association, to be affiliated with the American Automobile Association, the principal motive being the promotion of the movement in this country. In order for a successful termination of this movement several prominent in automobile clubs throughout the country will be present, among them being Frederick H. Elliott, secretary of the American Automobile Association; Jefferson Holton Thompson, chairman of the Racing Board of the American Automobile Association, and president of the Vanderbilt Cup Contest; J. T. Tunis, president of the Lexington Automobile Club, and Ben Wallie, president of the Paducah Automobile Club. The American Automobile Association has as its main object the betterment of automobile legislation, organization of road movement, promoting of fair racing and touring contests, posting of guide and danger signals, and the general advancement of motoring interests. Another important matter to be taken up by the Louisville Automobile Club, is the annual meeting of the movement for making Third Avenue a boulevard, and securing legislation to prevent heavy traffic and vehicles of all kinds from using the roadway. A committee will be appointed at the meeting to take up the question with the city officials and others interested in the boulevard movement. A report of the committee appointed to make investigation and arrange for the club's tour to Lexington, Kentucky, will also be received. It is believed the efforts of the committee will result in more than one hundred local cars making the trip to Lexington, where extensive arrangements have been made for the reception and entertainment of the members of the Louisville Club. The annual meeting of the club will be held at the Louisville Hotel, and after the meeting a dinner will be served to the members and invited guests.

STOP WOMAN AND CONSIDER

First, that almost every operation in our hospitals, performed upon women, becomes necessary because of neglect of such symptoms as Backache, Irregularities, Displacements, Pain in the Side, Dragging Sensations, Dizziness and Sleeplessness. Second, that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, has cured more cases of female ills than any other medicine known. It regulates, strengthens and restores women's health and is invaluable in preparing women for child-birth and during the period of Change of Life. Third, the great volume of unsolicited and grateful testimonials on file at the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., many of which are from time to time being published by special permission, give absolute evidence of the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Mrs. Pinkham's advice.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

For more than 30 years has been curing Female Complaints, such as Dragging Sensations, Back Back, Falling and Displacements, Inflammation and Ulceration, and Organic Diseases, and it dissolves and expels Tumors at an early stage.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation to Women
 Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. for advice. She is the Mrs. Pinkham who has been advising sick women free of charge for more than twenty years, and before that she assisted her mother-in-law, Lydia E. Pinkham in advising. Thus she is especially well qualified to guide sick women back to health. Write today, don't wait until too late.

BIDS RECEIVED.

Two Contractors Would Improve Market Street.

STATE-STREET ASPHALT PAVEMENT ACCEPTED BY BOARD.

ANOTHER WOMAN THOUGHT JUVENILE COURT PLAYTHING.

JUDGE DISILLUSIONS HER.

Bids for the improvement of Market street, between State and Pearl streets, were opened yesterday by the Board of Public Works of New Albany. Two were received, one from the Jefferson County Construction Company, and the other from W. O. Sweeney, of Jeffersonville. The bid of Mr. Sweeney was $24.25 a lineal foot on both sides of the street, and that of the Jefferson County Construction Company $22.80. These bids were referred to Samuel T. Mann, engineer, for examination. The contract will be awarded at the board meeting next Wednesday. The improvement provides for a roadway of vitrified brick on each side of the street with an artificial stone plaza 40x200 feet in the center.

The asphalt improvement of State street from Main to a point 100 feet north of Oak street, was accepted. The preliminary assessment roll was adopted and April 24 fixed upon as the date to hear objections from interested property owners. The cost on each side was $5.92 a lineal foot of spring and $5 a front foot north of that street, the difference in the cost being on account of the street railway track, the company having to bear its part of the burden.

City Engineer Samuel T. Mann reported the completion of the sewer on Culbertson avenue, east of Vincennes street. The improvement was accepted and a resolution adopted ordering the preliminary assessment roll to be made. Permission was granted John Blount to move a house from Spring street, near Thirteenth to East Fifteenth and Elm streets.

LEARN ABOUT JUVENILE COURT

Some New Albany People Find It Means Business.

Mary McIntosh, wife of Isaac McIntosh, failed to appear at a subpoena issued out of the juvenile court at New Albany to appear in that tribunal and answer to a charge of having violated the compulsory education law. An attachment was issued for her yesterday morning, and she was taken into custody by Deputy Sheriff J. A. Lester, and brought into court, where, after giving her a lecture, Judge Uitz fined her $5 for contempt. People in New Albany are unacquainted with the workings of the juvenile court, and a number of them have refused to obey the subpoenas issued from it. On that account Judge Uitz has been compelled in the last few weeks to fine a number of persons so offending.

Mr. Charles Clancy, who several weeks ago, chased Probation Officer Joseph H. Kraft out of her yard at 1015 King street with a pistol, because he had the temerity to summon her to appear in court, was called. The difficulty had arisen on account of her having failed to send her little daughter to school. This neglect she excused by the statement that the child had been ill, and the mother showed quarantined. The case was continued, promises having been made that she would send the child to school after. Nothing was done in the matter of chasing the officer out of the yard, and it will come up at the next session of the juvenile court. Several delinquents, who had failed to send their children to school as provided by the compulsory education law, were reprimanded.

Col. Stephen D. Sayles Dead.

Funeral services for Col. Stephen D. Sayles, an old soldier of the Civil War, were held yesterday morning at the family home in Salem, thirty-five miles north of New Albany, under the direction of the G. A. R. Post of that place. Col. Sayles was eighty years of age, and is survived by his aged widow and his daughter, Mrs. M. C. Hobbs.

Col. Sayles had a remarkable career. He was the first call for troops in the Civil War, going out as Captain of Company G, Thirtieth Indiana Infantry, the first regiment to go to the front from New Albany. With his command he had the distinction of capturing from the Confederates the first piece of artillery taken in the war at the battle of Rich Mountain. On account of wounds, which disabled him, he retired from the service, but a year later re-entered the army, having been commissioned Lieutenant Colonel of the One hundred and Seventeenth Indiana Infantry, serving until the close of the war. During his service he participated in more than twenty general engagements, and was twice throughout the army for his intrepidity.

ITEMS OF INTEREST IN NEW ALBANY.

Dr. Anna McKamey has been called to Nashville on account of illness of her sister, Miss Jessie McKamey.

The Boys' Sunday Club, at the Y. M. C. A., will meet this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of Mrs. A. J. Stalup, of Louisville.

At the First Church of Christ, Scientist, this morning the subject will be "Are Sin, Disease and Death Real?"

A permit has been issued to Charles W. R. E. Bean, one of the most skillful and successful anglers in New Albany, returned yesterday from a fishing trip to the Ohio river, where he was successful in securing a big string of fish.

The string was a pike over three feet long and weighed about five pounds, and which was taken by Mr. Bean with hook and line, after a struggle that lasted an hour. The fish is reported to be a ver croaker, near the fourth dam, and the fish brought there by the overwinter in the Ohio river a few weeks ago.

The Rev. H. M. Edmunds, of Louisville, will preach at the First Presbyterian church, between State and Pearl streets, this afternoon at 2 o'clock. There will be no services at night.

Walter F. Tuley, formerly of this city, called on the city clerk yesterday afternoon for a permit to travel on the Cincinnati and Great Western roads.

The girls of the High School senior class were entertained last night by Miss Mabel Kufess and Miss Katherine Wolpert, at the home of Miss Wolpert, on East Elm street.

The Board of Commissioners of Lawrence county have approved of remonstrances filed against the retail liquor traffic in Spoke Valley and Indian Creek townships.

Dr. T. B. Love, the veterinary surgeon, who was stricken with paralysis Thursday morning at his home, 187 State street, is greatly improved, and the chances are that he will entirely recover.

A compromise was effected in the case of Anna Krausgraff against the Pennsylvania Company, which was taken from the docket in the Circuit Court. The terms of the compromise were not made public.

The Rev. W. P. Smith, pastor of Central church, will preach this morning at 10 o'clock at the First Church of Christ, Scientist, at 1015 King street.

The funeral of Mrs. Anna Bochart took place yesterday morning at St. Mary's Catholic church, the services having been conducted by the Rev. George C. Borkes. The burial was in St. Mary's cemetery in Lafayette township.

At the Tabernacle Baptist church this morning the pastor, Rev. E. T. Poulk, will exhibit at the St. Louis World's Fair. This evening the decision of the Douglas County Circuit Court and upholds the decision of the Circuit Court of Illinois, which held that Mrs. Bleakley is the mother of the child.

The decision to-day ends a most interesting fight for possession of the baby, James G. Barkley, and Stella Barkley, his wife, who were in charge of the exhibit at the St. Louis fair, saw the baby in the incubator concession. They traced its supposed parentage to Mrs. Bleakley, of Lawrence, who was persuaded to sign a deed of conveyance of the child and custody to the decision of the Illinois court that she is its mother.

Physicians of Southern Indiana will hold the district meeting at Bedford on April 10. It is expected that many will be present, some of whom have earned a wide reputation on account of their skill in the profession.

In the polo game at the Crescent rink Friday night, the Dolphins, of Jeffersonville, were defeated by the Crescents, of this city, by a score of 12 to 4. The players were: Crescents, Walker, first rush; Belock, second rush; Shaw, center; Houston, halfback; Phillips, goal. Dolphins, Johnson, first rush; second rush; Galtier, center; Wilson, halfback; and Williams, goal.

A eulogy will be given next Wednesday afternoon and night by the Ladies Hospital Club, at St. Joseph's Hall, on East Eighth street. The proceeds are to be applied to the fund for the maintenance of St. Edward's City Hospital.

The Rev. Dr. Charles Preston Furman, former pastor of the First Presbyterian church, who has been at Montreal, N. C., for the last month, will leave for the city this morning. He expects to return to his home in a city next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Angus Graham, who have been visiting their son, Harry R. Kerin, at "Clifton Heights," on the Silver Hills, left yesterday for Chicago, and will return to Louisville in a few weeks.

The Rev. Edmund A. Neville, pastor of St. Paul's, will have for the subject of his sermon at 10 o'clock this morning "Does Death End All?" Choir, 10 o'clock.

A vested choir of thirty voices will furnish the music, Martin Sullivan being the soloist. Holy communion will be celebrated at 7 o'clock this morning. There will be Sunday school and confirmation instruction at 8:15.

The Rev. F. F. Cato, at the Central Christian church, will have for his theme "Church Policy." At night he will preach on "A Pool in Thought."

A service of the church will be held and seven deacons elected. Heretofore the board had consisted of twelve deacons and there were four vacancies to be filled, but the congregation concluded to increase the number of the board to fifteen, which would require the election of seven.

The petition for a rehearing, filed by the appellant, was overruled in the Appellate Court in the case of the Louisville and Southern Indiana Traction Company against Z. F. Lead. The case was tried before a jury in the Harrison Circuit Court and the finding was for the plaintiff.

Lead was found to be a street car at Vincennes and Market streets, this case was brought up in the Circuit Court of this city and the case was transferred to Harrison county on a change of venue.

ASKS MANDAMUS.

School Trustee Simpson Files Suit Against Board.

ATTORNEY GENERAL HAYS ALSO BRINGS OUSTER ACTION.

TWENTY-THREE DIVORCES ARE GRANTED AT JOINT SESSION.

CHARGES AGAINST HOSPITAL.

Two suits were filed yesterday looking towards a straightening out of a tangle in the School Board's membership caused by the recent decision of the Court of Appeals, which knocks out the redistricting act of the last Legislature. One action is by the Commonwealth on the part of N. B. Hays, Attorney General, against the three members whose districts were dissolved by the Court of Appeals' decision, namely, Dr. George F. Simpson, Martin Cusick and Dr. Clarence T. Pope. The Commonwealth seeks to require them to set up any right and title to the offices which they may think they hold or be ousted in accordance with the decision. The other suit is that of Dr. Simpson against the School Board, Phil B. Thompson, the president of the board, and Charles C. Martin, its secretary. He asks that they be required to recognize him as a member of the School Board from the Fifty-first legislative district, which consists of the Twelfth ward under the old act, fixing the district boundaries and which is now in full effect, the new act having been voided. Dr. Pope and Mr. Cusick were elected from the new district known as the Ninety-sixth, while Dr. Simpson was elected from the district comprised of the Twelfth and part of the Eleventh ward. All three trustees contended that the decision of the court did not affect them until thirty days had elapsed from the time it was delivered. However, the School Board ousted them immediately at a meeting held April 1. This left a vacancy in the board as arranged under the old districting act. Mr. Cusick was elected to fill the vacancy. Dr. Simpson, however, contends that because he was chosen by voters in the Twelfth ward he has the right to fill the vacancy created by the decision. This is the main question involved in the mandamus action.

Twenty-three Divorces Granted.

Divorces to the number of twenty-three were returned yesterday at the joint session. While this may not be the maximum number for the regular weekly batch of decrees it is one of the largest ever handed down. They were granted by both Judge Samuel B. Kirby and Special Judge Tyler Barnett, who is sitting in the Chancery Branch, First Division, in the place of Judge Shackelford Miller, now at French Lick Springs.

The divorces granted are as follows: Sarah Cole from George Cole, five years' separation alleged. They were married July 1, 1891. They were married in October, 1898. Annie M. Busch from John U. Busch, cruelty alleged. They were married in October, 1898. Salie Kuehner from Edward Kuehner, drunkenness and failure to support alleged. They were married August 20, 1900.

Thomas Kalfus from Josephine Kalfus, five years' separation alleged. Ella Dutton from Ed Dalton, abandonment alleged. They were married March 28, 1894.

Blanche Moriarty from Joseph Moriarty, five years' separation alleged. They were married in October, 1891.

Edward Coy from Bridget Coy, alleging five years' separation. They were married in October, 1891.

Edgar M. Price from Mary Price, abandonment alleged. They were married in December, 1894.

E. Hewitt Eubank from Sallie Eubank, improper conduct alleged. They were married October 15, 1891.

Mamie Gray from Daniel Gray, cruelty charged. They were married July 1, 1897.

Enslah Sores from William Sores, drunkenness and cruelty charged. They were married September 15, 1902.

Myr Greater from Charles Greater, cruelty charged. They were married in Jeffersonville, January 7, 1895.

Annie Glason from Robert L. Glason, cruelty charged. They were married May 6, 1894.

Ida E. Thompson from James Thompson, abandonment charged. They were married August 26, 1894.

Lucy Drane from Charles Drane, five years' separation alleged. They were married December 31, 1890.

Jonathan McKelvey from Lida McKelvey, five years' separation alleged. They were married June 24, 1893.

Lottie Parker from Sandra Parker, five years' separation alleged.

George M. McClellan from Maria A. McClellan, five years' separation alleged. They were married in October, 1888.

Alice Gibson from William Gibson, cruelty alleged. They were married August 7, 1902.

Josephine A. Schneider from Max Schneider, abandonment alleged. They were married March 12, 1899.

Lina Bruce from Ben Bruce, five years' separation alleged. They were married March 27, 1898.

Mary E. Heuser from Edward L. Heuser, cruelty charged. They were married November 8, 1891.

Lena Bridges from William Bridges, cruelty charged. They were married in Jeffersonville, February 22, 1898.

QUEEN'S LETTERS

Victoria's Correspondence To Be Made Public.

EDITORS HAVE ENDEAVORED TO SHOW HER PERSONALITY.

WOMAN OF PREFERENCES AND EVEN PREJUDICES.

WITH THE KING'S APPROVAL.

[Correspondence of the Courier-Journal.] London, March 25.—For the first time in the history of the United Kingdom, the correspondence of a British sovereign will be made public. By authority of the King, "The Letters of Queen Victoria," which Mr. A. C. Benson and Viscount Escher have been editing during the last four or five years, will be published some time next winter. The letters will be in three volumes, each containing of about 600 pages, medium octavo.

The character of the late Queen is fully brought out in the letters. She is shown to have been a woman of decided preferences, and even prejudices, and these, of course, played no little part in the drama of the time. The editors have endeavored throughout to show the personality of Queen Victoria, her methods of approaching and deciding great state questions, her outlook, her sympathies, her shrewdness, her perseverance and her diligence.

The period actually to be covered by the letters is from 1837 to 1861. The first volume covers the correspondence to the age of twenty-five. Here Victoria is seen as a young Queen, called upon to select a husband of her own choice, with new Ministers to whom she was instinctively opposed, but her personal antipathy to whom she soon overcame, and with a country seething with discontent against long hours of work and dear food.

The second volume deals with the period of the repeal of the Corn Laws; foreign revolutions, of which the most sensational incident will be the story of the flight of Louis Philippe to New-Haven; the disruption of the old Weymouth; the third of the three volumes deals with the Eastern question, the Crimean War, the Indian Mutiny, the China War, the Franco-Austrian War and the struggle for a united Italy. The letters terminate with the Prince Consort's death.

King Edward has read through all the proofs of the three volumes, making alterations and corrections which he considered desirable. The interest of the letters will be greatly enhanced by the addition of forty-one illustrations, which have been specially chosen by the King from the collections in the Buckingham Palace, Windsor and elsewhere.

LONELIEST ISLAND

Officially Described As the Most Remote Spot On Earth.

[Correspondence of the Courier-Journal.] London, March 25.—Which is the loneliest, most desolate and most inaccessible island on the face of the globe? Many people would doubtless plump for one of the Crozets, which were recently brought into notice owing to the wreck thereon of the Norwegian exploring ship Catherine, and the subsequent rescue of the castaway crew by the Turakina, a British steamer dispatched from Cape Town for that express purpose.

But Hog Island, the westernmost of the group, and the one whereon the wrecked men spent most of their time, is by no means the most remote. It is a small, rocky island, about 100 yards in length, and is visited by whalers occasionally. So, too, is South Georgia, but it has no shelter but, and as it is right out of the track of shipping, anyone unlucky enough to be cast away thereon would stand a very poor chance of ever getting off alive.

Bouvet Island, in the same seas, is visited even more rarely, and on the last occasion when a ship touched there five corpses were found frozen on the beach, grim memento of some unrecorded tragedy of the sea. Possession Island, in its turn, is still lonelier and more inhospitable than Bouvet. But probably the most remote in this direction must be ascribed to Dougherty Island, on which, so far as is known, no landing has ever been made. It has only been sighted twice in a century, and is officially described in the Admiralty Sailing Directions as "the most remote and isolated spot on earth."

SLID INTO WEDLOCK.

Bridal Toboggan Party At a Mountain Town Near Vienna.

[Correspondence of the Courier-Journal.] Vienna, March 25.—Two enthusiastic tobogganists—Herr A. Meyer and Frau. Schwarz—celebrated their wedding yesterday in an original manner at their native mountain town, Payrbach, near Vienna.

Owing to the unusual length of the winter the streets of the town are deep in snow, and the wedding procession slid down a steep hill from the bride's house to the church on seven toboggans decorated with pine branches and flowers.

The bride led the way with her father, her mother and the other wedding guests followed, and the bridegroom brought up the rear.

Visitors staying in Payrbach, which is a great resort for winter sports, cheered the bride and bridegroom loudly as they left the church, and toboggan races, at which the bridegroom took part, were organized on the spot for the afternoon in honor of the event.

CAN KEEP HIS HAT ON.

Lord Forester Is Not Required To Doff To the King.

[Correspondence of the Courier-Journal.] London, March 25.—Lord Forester shares with one other peer, Lord Kinross, the curious privilege of being allowed to remain with his head covered in other words, with his hat on—in the sovereign's presence. This quaint right, which it need hardly be said, is very rarely exercised, was granted to one of Lord Forester's ancestors by Henry VIII. The present head of the house is a typical English country gentleman, a keen sportsman and sportsman, and devoted to his beautiful country estate, Willey Park, Shropshire. Lord Forester is the age of the King, but he married three years later than did his majesty, and so he and Lady Forester celebrated last year the fortieth anniversary of their wedding day.

The wedding will take place early in June.

A Louisville Girl

And Her Unusual Beauty the Subject of Newspaper Paragraphs—Miss Elizabeth Sherley's Beauty Praised by New York Papers.

MISS ELIZABETH SHERLEY, who is now abroad with Mrs. Samuel Thomas, of New York, as her guest, is attracting even more than the usual amount of attention a pretty girl receives with her beauty.

Miss Sherley is unquestionably one of the most beautiful girls not only in Louisville but in the State, and it is a small wonder that the papers of New York, where she and her mother spend most of their time, devote much space to her.

The following extract from a New York society journal will be of interest:

Unless a girl is good-looking and lively enough to be interesting she has little show in the cold social world, and dozens of New York girls without those beguiling attributes would give years of their lives for the opportunity that has come to Miss Elizabeth Sherley; knowing Miss Elizabeth better than do some of her prospective suitors, I am convinced that she will make the most of her imminent good fortune. Louisville society must hold its breath until it has finished reading my brief announcement.

Miss Elizabeth Sherley has sailed for Paris, where she will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Vanderbilt for several weeks. Afterward Miss Sherley will go to London to spend a month with Mr. and Mrs. R. Livingston Beckman.

I haven't the slightest doubt that everywhere in Kentucky will read that all over a second time.

Miss Sherley is the pretty girl who was Miss Ned Thomas' guest last summer at Newport and Narragansett, where she at once stepped into the limelight and was the rage among the men of Mrs. Thomas' set. Miss Sherley is something of a beauty, and I believe it was she who came into a lot of disgusting newspaper publicity of the Sunday-supplement variety because some Yale football player was supposed to have been handed the mitten by her; but here Yale football players can never more get close enough to the lady to be surrounded with the halo of an engagement rumor.

The Beckmans bring her back to Newport that resort will doubtless have a new element of interest next summer, and in the meantime will probably be regaled with more rumors of the young lady's engagement.

April 26

The Date for the Floral Ball to be Given by Miss Meme Wastell at the Coliseum.

THE annual ball to be given by Miss Meme Wastell's pupils will take place on Friday afternoon, April 26, at 2 o'clock at the Coliseum.

Miss Wastell has arranged a floral ball which will be carried out in a most elaborate and artistic manner. The boxes will all be occupied and the entertainment will be one of the prettiest ever designed by Miss Wastell.

The children will represent every flower known to the botanical kingdom. The grand march will be led by little Miss Ada Lewis Hart and Master Carl Rautenberg.

Concert and Ball

To be Given by the First Kentucky Regiment at the Armory on April 15 to be One of the Most Brilliant Social Affairs of the Year.

WITHOUT doubt one of the greatest social events of the year will be the concert and ball to be given by the First Kentucky regiment at the Armory on Monday night, April 15. The elaborate scale upon which this entertainment will be given has probably never been surpassed in the history of Louisville society.

Col. W. B. Haldeman and the regiment are not leaving a stone unturned to make it a great success and expense will not be spared in making the Armory attractive, and thought has been given to the decoration, which will be most pleasing.

The pleasure of the guests is, of course, the first consideration of those in charge of the affair. Seats will be provided for those who go only as listeners and spectators. Boxes will be reserved for the patronesses and their guests. The floor is being put in excellent condition for dancing.

Weber's Band, which, as Louisville people know, is one of the best in the country, will give a concert from 8:15 to 9:30 o'clock. The programme has been chosen with great care and will consist of selections from the latest operas and musical successes. From 9:30 until 10 o'clock Col. Haldeman and his staff will receive the guests, and at 10 o'clock the ball will open with a grand march. Weber's Band will play the dance music and the latest novelties in music will be heard.

Special arrangements are being made for the supper. It will be served in the gymnasium and refreshment booths will be on the main floor, within easy access of the dancers. The supper in the gymnasium will be fifty cents, and at the buffet, on the main floor, twenty-five cents.

Special rates have been made on all railroads running into the city, as a large number of out-of-town guests are expected. Arrangements have been made with the street car company to provide cars for the guests, both going and coming.

The following women will act as patronesses:

MESDAMES:
W. B. Haldeman, Ernest Allis, David Aorton, Basil Duke, Morris B. Belknap, Benjamin Atkinson, Austin Hyde, George C. Norton, James P. Buckner, Worham Otter, William R. Belknap, Charles Ballard, Horace W. Robb, Alfred Brandels, Austin Ballard, Houlting Davis, J. Edwin Whitney, Idolpho Sneed, Thurston Ballard, Sara C. Hudson, Charles Ewell, William Speed, Garvin Bell, Alexander P. Humphrey, Robert Hunt, William Tapp, Robert W. Blingham, Lewis Humphrey, William S. Culbertson, Frederick D. Huser, Dan Carroll, William R. Caperton, Isham Bridges, Charles Wolf, Robert M. Kelly, Jr., Sallie Marshall, Robert M. Kelly, Jr., Owsley Brown, Charles W. DePauw, John McAlvey, Austin D. Kinnard, Charles T. Garth.

Lieut. Charles Louis Stevenson, U. S. A., was registered at The Seelbach yesterday, being on a flying visit to his old home and friends in Louisville.

Lieut. Stevenson is one of the Louisville boys who have made decided positions in the ranks of the army, having enlisted in the ranks five years ago and working his way up to his present position by ability and hard work. He was commissioned at Leavenworth last January, after having passed a very creditable examination. He is not yet twenty-four. Just after he entered the High School he determined to take chances on securing a commission by way of the ranks. His noncommissioned promotion was rapid and his record as an enlisted man, both in home service and in the Philippines, was most creditable. Later he has been under Capt. Senon Wright, so favorably remembered in the ranks, and Louisville boy. Lieut. Stevenson has just completed a visit to his mother, Mrs. Jane Tyler Stevenson, at Owensboro. He goes to Washington from here to spend a day or two with Gen. Bell, and will then sail from Newport News to Havana to join his regiment, the Fifteenth cavalry.

The John Marshall Chapter, D. A. R., met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. D. B. Sperry. After an interesting programme Mrs. Sperry served refreshments.

S. S. S. NATURE'S TONIC

Nature has most abundantly supplied the forests and fields of this land with vegetable material for the relief and cure of all the ills and ailments of mankind. Our forefathers recognizing this fact searched out and compounded these ingredients into teas, concoctions and medicines, many of which have been handed down to succeeding generations to bless them with their health-giving and health-sustaining qualities. Among the very best of these vegetable preparations secured from the great laboratory of forest and field is S. S. S., a medicine made entirely from the invigorating, healthful extracts and juices of roots, herbs and barks in such combination as to produce the greatest of all tonics, and a general systemic remedy without an equal.

A tonic is almost absolutely necessary to most persons in the Spring. This is the season at which the greatest demands are made on our physical systems, because with the return of warmer weather the blood, and every member of the body, is making extra effort to throw off the impure accumulations which have been left in the system because of the inactive Winter life; and few constitutions are able to withstand these demands without some manifestation of disorder. The blood becomes weak and watery because of the collected refuse matter which it has absorbed, and can no longer supply the body with the strength and energy that is needed to keep it in health. The pale, colorless skin, physical weakness, a tired, worn-out feeling, fickle appetite, poor digestion, a half sick feeling, and a general run-down condition of the system means anaemia or blood poverty and a tonic and blood purifier is needed to right the deranged system and enrich the blood.

The body must have assistance—it must be strengthened and aided with a tonic, and S. S. S. is the ideal one. Being purely vegetable in its nature it does not disagreeably affect the system in any way as do some of the so called tonics on the market, which often contain harmful mineral ingredients to derange the stomach and digestion, unfavorably affect the bowels and otherwise damage the health. S. S. S. tones up the stomach and digestion and assists in the proper assimilation of food, it rids the system of that tired, worn-out feeling and imparts tone and vigor to every part of the body. It re-establishes the healthy circulation of the blood, purifies and enriches this vital fluid, stimulates the sluggish organs to better action, and quiets the over-strained nerves which makes one feel on the verge of nervous prostration. S. S. S. gives an appetite and relish for food that nothing else does, and by its use we can find ourselves with as hearty appetite in Spring as at any other season. It acts more promptly and gives better and more lasting results than any other tonic and is absolutely safe for young or old.

When you take your tonic this Spring do not experiment, but get the best, S. S. S. NATURE'S TONIC, the remedy with forty years of success behind it and the one endorsed by the best people all over the country. It is necessary at this time, when the system is weakened and depleted at every point, that the right medicine be used—one especially adapted to the disordered condition, and one that will brace up and invigorate the entire system, and for a great many years S. S. S. has proved itself to be this remedy. It is nature's greatest tonic and the king of all blood purifiers.

WILD TOBACCO

FOUND GROWING IN MONTEZUMA VALLEY.

Kentuckian Discovers Good Quality of Weed—Farmers Try To Stamp It Out.

Denver, Col., April 6.—[Special.]—Prof. Fritz Knorr, of the Colorado Agricultural College, has found tobacco growing wild in greatest profusion in the Montezuma valley of Colorado.

Prof. Knorr is a native of Kentucky, and knows tobacco culture all the way from planting the seed to breaking the necks of the big green worms. While attending the Farmers' Institute at Cortez, in the Montezuma valley, Prof. Knorr was asked to suggest a method for eradicating a very troublesome weed. He was given a sample of the weed to examine, and was amazed to see in it a very fine specimen of wild tobacco. It seems that none of the farmers there were familiar with the tobacco plant, and did not recognize the obnoxious weed as the ancestor of the cigars they were smoking.

Prof. Knorr made the following statement: "I have carefully studied the Montezuma valley, and from what I know of tobacco soil, I do not hesitate to pronounce it as good as anything in the South. I believe what is even more important is the favorable climate in that valley. The trouble experienced from 'spotting' of tobacco through the action of the sun and the dewdrops in most tobacco-growing sections would never exist in the Montezuma valley, as the dew rarely ever falls there."

GOT IN BAD.

Kaiser Took the Danish Crown Prince Where He Heard Things.

[Correspondence of the Courier-Journal.]

Berlin, March 25.—Some interest was aroused here by the first performance of the new opera, "Lazzy Hans," by Herr Alexander Ritter, a former pupil of Herr Richard Strauss.

The Kaiser attended the first performance at the Royal Opera House, but since then the opera has disappeared from the repertoire. It was thought that this could not be due to the intrinsic weakness of the piece.

It now appears that the opera, which is founded upon incidents in the Russo-Danish War, is replete with patriotic references, which, however, at times take the form of unwelcome gibes and insults at the expense of the Danes, who are described as "Danish dogs," "Northern hounds," and by similar opprobrious epithets.

Possibly these passages might have been excused as the first performance had not the Kaiser unfortunately selected that evening to bring the Crown Prince of Denmark as his guest to the opera. Of the royal intention the directorate had full warning. Yet they had omitted to notify the Kaiser of the character and text of the opera. The management received a severe lecture from the Kaiser, and the ill-fated opera was banished from the official repertoire.

ENTRANCE TO NOTED CAVERN AT HORSE CAVE.

Horse Cave, Ky., April 6.—[Special.]—A local artist, Mr. H. P. Mize, recently made the above picture, which is an exact likeness of the cavern at Horse Cave. Visitors of one accord are charmed with its picturesque appearance. It got its name at an early day, when there was no town here. An old gray horse was grazing on the brink of the cave and lost its balance, falling over the precipice, a height of about one hundred feet. The place has since been known as Horse Cave.

There is a large stream of cool fresh water running in the cave near the entrance, from which the waterworks plant gets water to supply the needs of the town. As shown in the picture, the stand-pipe is near by.

Nine miles from here are the famous Mammoth and Diamond Caves, with which many believe this cave joins. As the cave is lost its balance, falling over the precipice, a height of about one hundred feet. The place has since been known as Horse Cave.

MINISTER ADOPTS NOVEL METHOD OF ATTRACTING ATTENTION TO SERVICES.

Columbus, Ind., April 6.—[Special.]—The old time circus men of, say forty or fifty years ago, would have considered themselves extremely fortunate could they have had the same method of advertising their shows as was employed yesterday afternoon by Rev. S. S. Oltut, pastor of the Central Christian church, in advertising revival meetings that are to begin at the Central Christian church to-morrow.

The method employed by Rev. Oltut was both new and novel, and consisted of a parade made up of automobiles, on some of which were large banners containing the following inscriptions:

"Come to our Meetings and We Will Do You Good. Where the Bible Speaks, We Speak; Where the Bible is Silent, We are Silent. Revival Services Commence at the Central Christian Church April 7."

The procession, which was a long one, formed at the Central Christian church at 4 o'clock in the afternoon and paraded on the principal streets of the city, and from the second car in the procession, where he sat beside Rev. W. H. Book, pastor of the Tabernacle Christian church, Rev. Oltut announced the coming revival meetings orally. The meetings will be conducted by Rev. J. O. Shelburne, of Cleveland, O., and Prof. Robert Knight will have charge of the music for the meetings.

BRAINSTORM

Makes President Roosevelt See Things.

WEIRD FANTASTIC DREAMS OF ANXIOUS POLITICIAN.

THINKS HEARST AND HARRIMAN BROTHERS IN INIQUITY.

WASHINGTON IS LAUGHING.

[Washington Star.]

"The President is seeing things," was the terse comment of a politician today as he strode through the White House grounds.

He referred to important talks the President had had yesterday afternoon with a number of friends relative to what he considers a tremendous combination of corporations and reactionaries to bring down either his downfall or that of his policies.

The President unhesitatingly asserts that favorite-son campaigns for the Republican presidential nomination is in full blast, and that its entire design is to overthrow him and his policies. He sees a powerful combination between Hearst and Harriman, men of such diametrically opposite views and desires that nobody ever thought of that way before. In his talks yesterday he attacked Hearst without qualification, and alleged that the New York editor, who has heretofore refrained from attacking him, was a part of the combination working against "the rights of the people."

Is He Working For Delegates?

The simultaneous appearance of the views of the President with the announcement of a number of people that they were for the renomination of the President is considered of vast significance, and the view is strongly taken in many directions to-day that the President has practically given his word to his friends to secure delegates pledged to his renomination. Whether he will permit these to be used for his own renomination or to insure the nomination of someone like Taft is still in dispute.

Yesterday Senator Burkett, of Nebraska, had an hour's conference with the President. He would not talk when he went away from the White House, but half an hour later gave out an interview announcing that he stood for the renomination of the President and would work to that end. Some time ago ex-Representative Martin, of South Dakota, just as he was going out of Congress, made a similar announcement after conferring with the President. It was only a short time ago that Senator Hiram, of North Dakota, came out for the President for another term. His announcement followed several conferences with the President. In Tennessee the principal third-term advocate is Newell Sanders, chairman of the Republican State Committee. He commenced his traveling after a conference with the President.

The President is said to realize his personal strength in States like North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Wyoming and Idaho, and it will be these States, from what now appears to be the program, that will first declare for Roosevelt and send delegates for him.

Some Remarkable Utterances.

Visitors who heard the President talk yesterday are still commenting on the remarkable series of utterances from the chief executive, and not a single man present differed in his summary as to its meaning. With one accord they took the utterances to mean that the President will take a hand from now until the presidential nomination in 1908 in the fight in the Republican party. No longer will the President be a passive factor in the coming fight.

The President said many things yesterday of a highly significant and sensational nature, none, however, more startling than the alleged conspiracy to prevent Roosevelt's victory being carried out by nominating hostile candidates for President and Vice President.

The President's Version.

President Roosevelt has discussed with a number of his callers various features of the controversy between Mr. Harriman and himself, growing out of the publication of the letters between them. He desired not to be quoted in the matter, however. To his friends the utterances to mean that the version of Mr. Harriman's visit preceding the election of 1904, which Mr. Harriman wanted assistance from the Republican National Committee to help out Chairman Odell in the New York State campaign for Governor, whose expenses he (Harriman) had raised $100,000. The President promised to communicate with Harriman, and Bliss to see what could be done. He did in this case, he declared, just what he had done in other instances where he had been appealed to help in State campaigns.

Corporation Contributions.

To some of his visitors the President referred to the statement made public by Judge Alton B. Parker in Albany, in which he said that he had never been denied that $150,000 was turned over by the Equitable, Mutual and New York Life Insurance Companies to Mr. Cortelyou's committee and that Congress had refused to make an investigation into the corporate contributions of 1904 or to pass a law prohibiting such contributions in the future. On this subject the President referred to a statement which he made on November 4, 1904, in which he said, in part:

"That contributions have been made to the Republican committee, as contributions have been made to the Democratic committee, is not the question at issue. Mr. Parker's assertion is in effect that such contributions have been made for improper motives, either in consequence of threats or in consequence of improper promises, direct or indirect, on the part of the recipient."

Contributions Returned.

Neither Mr. Parker nor his supporters have been able to produce the statements made to that answer. The President said that to his own knowledge about a dozen contributions offered by corporations had been declined by Chairman Cortelyou, but that he had not been able to get a contribution by the American Tobacco Company, he said, had been returned. A prominent man had made a contribution of $50,000 to the Republican campaign fund. Subsequently this man had made known his desire for an appointment in the diplomatic service. The event that the President was alluding to, as his motives were understood, was that the White House in a hurry.

It is commented upon to-day with much interest that the White House is losing no time in getting the story to the public as fast as possible.

Millions Raised By Combination.

The President's talks yesterday were further supplemented to-day by the

Mrs. Philip Chinn and little daughter, who have been spending the winter in the South, have returned to Lexington, and are the guests of Mrs. James Reed.

Miss Katherine Kelley has returned to her home in Versailles, after a visit to Mrs. Joe McMeekin.

Miss Annie Shouse has returned from a short visit to her aunt, Mrs. Aaron Parra, in Wood County.

Mrs. John L. Sandey entertained with a card party Tuesday afternoon in honor of her daughter, Mrs. Frank Carter, and her guest, Mrs. Stanley Smith, both of Avondale.

Miss Catherine Hopson is spending this week with Miss Mary Hawkins, in the country.

Miss Alice Blair, of Staunton, Va., is the guest of Mrs. Isaac C. Van Meter.

Mrs. Charles McDonald and Miss Viola McDonald, of Louisville, are guests of Mrs. James Todd.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Hanger, of Richmond, have returned home after a visit to Mrs. Isaac C. Van Meter.

CHILDREN OF NEIGHBORS BURIED IN SAME COFFIN.

Paducah, Ky., April 6.—Mrs. Essie Ricketts and Mrs. Edward Marshall, lifelong friends and neighbors, whose infants were born under the same roof, shared each other's sorrow when they buried their children in the same casket at Hopkinsville.

Mrs. Ricketts is a widow and resides with Mrs. Marshall in Paducah. They lived as neighbors in Hopkinsville and had been companions since girlhood.

A child of each contracted pneumonia the same day and died only a few hours apart in the same house.

INDICTMENTS FOUND AGAINST GAS OFFICIAL.

Dayton, O., April 6.—The grand jury which has been investigating the short- age in the accounts of the Dayton Gas company, in a final report this evening returned eight indictments against George M. Smart, ex-secretary of the institution, charging him with embezzling $24,848.32. Smart and his wife are visiting in the South.

It is alleged that part of this money was used to buy out rival concerns and that large sums of money were paid to politicians and others who were influential in having passed certain ordinances beneficial to the company.

LARGEST GROWERS ENTER BURLEY TOBACCO POOL.

Shelbyville, Ky., April 6.—The American Tobacco company today scored a ten-strike to-day when W. J. and B. A. Thomas, Connell Bros. and other large Burley tobacco growers of Shelbyville signed papers at Cropper this county for the pool of the 1907 crop. The accessions to the pool were all growers who refused to enter the combination last year. The acreage represented by the new entries represents over 500 acres and amounts that approximately 80 per cent. of the coming crop in Shelby county is already pledged to the pool.

MAD PAINTER GIVEN FOURTEEN YEARS IN PRISON.

Bowling Green, Ky., April 6.—[Special.]—Tom Wilson, the "mad painter," who shot up the town here in December, wounding officers Bortmaker and Honer Still, and injuring several others, has been given an aggregate of fourteen years in the penitentiary, after trial on nine cases, in all of which he pleaded guilty. One case was fled away.

All For Shanks.

Stanford, Ky., April 6.—In the precinct conventions held in Lincoln county to nominate a Democratic candidate for Representative delegates from every precinct were instructed to vote for W. H. Shanks. He will be nominated by a convention here Monday.

FREMONT'S SON WILL FACE COURT-MARTIAL.

New York, April 6.—Maj. Gen. F. D. Grant to-day appointed a court-martial to try Maj. Frank P. Fremont, of the Fifth United States Infantry, on charges growing out of his petition in bankruptcy last year.

Maj. Fremont is the son of the late Gen. John C. Fremont. He returned from Cuba to face the charges. The court will convene here Wednesday.

DOLLAR BILL MUTE WITNESS OF WALL STREET TRAGEDY.

Oil City, Pa., April 6.—Charles L. Newton, a grocer, to-day came into possession of a dollar bill that seemed like an echo of the recent disastrous slump in Wall street. The bill was tendered in exchange for Easter eggs. Across its back is the following story: The last of $47,000, mostly lost in Wall street in United Pacific, Reading, St. Paul, Northern Pacific and a few others.

The grocer will frame the bill as a souvenir.

NEEDLE DRIVEN ALMOST INTO MAN'S HEART.

Paducah, Ky., April 6.—Charles Coyle, a mill hand at Metropolis, Ill., came within a fraction of an inch of death through a foolish habit. He carries a darning needle in his vest pocket. He carried a load of wood in his arms, and in tripping he drove the needle, which was forced into his breast within a fraction of an inch of the heart. An operation saved him.

NATIVE OF KENTUCKY DIES IN TENNESSEE.

Clarksville, Tenn., April 6.—Mrs. W. J. Martin, who for some time past had been conducting the Arlington Hotel, died after a protracted illness with pneumonia. She was forty-two years of age and was a native of Kentucky.

AGED VETERAN DEAD.

Shoals, Ind., April 6.—Isom Gwin, who was Captain of Company D, Eighteenth Regiment Indiana Volunteers during the Civil War, is dead at his home here after a long illness. He was eighty-one years of age.

LONELY.

[New York Times.]
At my club an evening stealing,
Gazing lonely at the ceiling;
No one nods, or comes to speak a word
Of cheer.

For the others, when they view me,
Look away, around, or through me;
When I order wine the waiter brings me beer.

I've a business corporation,
(Also one for education),
And I used to have a pass for every ride.

But my diamond's without glitter,
I'm the runt from out the litter,
All my old friends pass me on the other side.

Cold and hurried are my neighbors,
But I share not in their labors—
Very busy times to which I'm not invited.

Gone are all the friends who love me,
Absent now in courts above me;
I'm the only man who hasn't been indicted!

There are Special Reasons

Why you should wear the AMERICAN LADY Corset this spring.

Be Sure To Examine This Refrigerator

The time is here when you naturally begin to think of a Refrigerator.

There is no article that should be selected with more care, not only from the standpoint of economy in the consumption of ice, but from sanitary considerations as well.

BOHN'S Syphon System White Enamel Refrigerator

represents the very highest attainment in the line of refrigeration from every standpoint. It will save its cost in ice, by virtue of its scientific circulation of cold air it maintains a steadily low temperature in the hottest weather; it is the easiest to clean, being lined throughout with white enamel, and its general construction is at once the most beautiful as well as the most scientific of all Refrigerators.

The fact that it has been adopted on the Pullman and Buffet Cars of all the leading railroads is conclusive proof of its superiority.

Horrors of Life In Siberian Marshland, New Ground For Exiles.

Dread Naryim District, the Worst in Siberia, to Which the Russian Authorities Only Recently Have Sent Political Prisoners, is Here Described in Print For the First Time.

"THE FIRST STEP TO SIBERIA" A POLICE HAUL IN WARSAW. "SUSPECTS" BEING MARCHED OFF, TO THE CITADEL FOR "TRIAL."

THE BRIGHT SIDE OF THE SIBERIAN PICTURE. A GROUP OF WELL TO DO EXILES IN ONE OF THE SHOW TOWNS ALONG THE SIBERIAN RAILWAY STARTING OUT ON A HUNTING EXPEDITION WITH FALCONS.

THE FIRST FALL OF SNOW ON THE GRAVES OF SIBERIAN EXILES. THESE "LUCKY" DEAD HAVE BEEN BURIED IN MANY PLACES THE BODIES OF THOSE WHO PERISH IN THE NARYIM DISTRICT ARE LEFT UNCARED FOR ON THE FROZEN GROUND.

WARSAW, Poland, March 24.—That Russian autocracy has found a new dumping-ground for exiles in the wilds of far Siberia already has been reported in the newspapers of Europe and the United States. But of the horrors of life in the district of Naryim, the frozen marshland which only since the middle of last year has been used as a place of confinement for the victims of Czarism, scarcely an idea has yet been given.

No visitors are allowed to penetrate this desolate region. Recently, however, a few medical students and others have managed to escape from administrative exile there, and it is on the authority of these, and through letters from men and women who are suffering a living death in the new Siberian hell that I am able to supply some details regarding the terrible fate of those doomed to banishment within its confines.

Painted in appropriate blue on the map, this vast swamp of Naryim stretches over hundreds of miles in the province of Tomsk. It consists of dense primeval forests and marshes, on which grows a coarse, rank grass. It is frozen solid for nine months of the year. During the brief summer it is a region of miasma and mosquitoes. It is intersected by the river Obi and its tributaries. It is destitute of even the scantiest apertures for roads. Here and there along the banks of the river Obi live the few Russian colonists. Boats afford them the only means of communication.

The native inhabitants are Ostyaks—savages of the lowest type found in Siberia—who subsist by hunting and fishing in the brief summer, and during the long winter live, half-famished, in wretched, indescribably filthy mud hovels. They number now only 3,000. Ten years ago there were twice as many of them, but the advent of the white man brought with it the white man's curse—liquor. Disease and alcoholism are killing the Ostyaks off fast. All are drunkards when they get the chance, even the children.

Several thousands of Russian men and women have been sent to this ghastly region since the Russian Government discovered its capacity for adding fresh horrors to Siberian banishment. Of these, moreover, the great majority have been in no way criminals, recent convicts having been made up principally of school teachers and students, male and female; medical men, professors and other educated persons who were accused of having circulated socialist literature. All classes of society, however, are represented, among the rest being some soldiers who on their return from Port Arthur found their families ruined and maltreated. They complained of this and asked for redress from the authorities, and were in reply banished to this awful district.

Many of these exiles were taken from their homes within fifteen minutes of their arrest, without even being permitted to take a change of garments, and as they were in light summer clothes, they had to start on their ghastly journey to Siberia. And, once arrived, it is impossible for these unfortunate wretches to earn a livelihood on the frozen marshes. They cannot earn anything to supplement the miserable pittance the Government allows them, averaging only two and a half cents a day. They are, therefore, doomed to a perpetual struggle with disease and starvation. The weak ones succumb early and are buried by their envious comrades, or, if the ground be hard frozen, left on the marshes till spring.

Those who arrived in Naryim during the brief summer still cling to the illusion that their lives would be bearable. The native Ostyaks were out fishing and hunting, so the virtuous or mud huts were comparatively empty, only the old and helpless being left at home. Fish was cheap. Even coarse rye bread could be had. But this state of things did not last long. The frigid weather returned all too soon. The natives returned the huts were crammed with filthy humanity and drying fish. The sympathy of snow and storm raged outside. In the freezing cold of this region only the warmly clad dare venture out, and most of the exiles have only rags and tatters. Noses, ears, fingers and toes are carried off by the frost, leaving horrible wounds behind.

Immediately with the opening of winter, too, the price of the fish which hangs in the huts goes up alarmingly. However good the haul, there is never enough and to spare, for the savage eats his fill when there is plenty, and starves afterward. Bread disappears from the market. There is the dried grass from the marshes, and the exile eats that. He begins to wonder why he was glad to hear his death sentence had been commuted to lifelong exile—but that was before he knew Naryim. Now he envies his comrades who perished one gray morning on the ramparts of a Russian fortress, shot by order of the court-martial.

True, he might have been sent even further from civilization—to Yakutsk, on the Lena, which was once thought to be the worst spot in the fifty Russias that a political exile could live in. Here he would be utterly cut off from communication with his kind, unless, by some miracle, he could get a native to take him a hundred versts or so to his next-door neighbor. But now the settlements of Yakutsk are healthier than those of Tomsk. The unfortunate people are not so close together, the struggle for existence is consequently less hard than in the more crowded settlements. In Naryim typhus and kindred diseases, engendered by starvation and filth, carry off hundreds. Leprosy, the Siberian scourge, is another horror, for the Ostyaks who accept it as a matter of course, make matters worse by reason of their filthy habits. They are said to be the dirtiest people in the world. It is hardly surprising, for they live in a country where the water is frozen for nine months out of the twelve.

When the first batch of exiles arrived in Naryim in last June the settlers received them kindly and helped them in various ways, but the Governor, hearing of it, coerced the inhabitants into a practical boycott of the victims of Russian inhumanity. The police threatened them with severe punishments if they loaned any of the exiles either boats or dogs. As a few common law criminals had been banished there, the police spread the report that all exiles were such and should be avoided as robbers. In consequence of this persecution many of the half-clad wretches had to live in the open for weeks before they could find shelter of any sort. As a result of having to herd with the filthy savages, 50 per cent. of them have been smitten with leishmaniasis.

Visitors to Siberia are permitted to see only the show exile settlements to be found along the new railroad. The huts there are decently built of wood, the inhabitants well clothed and well fed. They make a brave show going off in their sledges on a holiday, their horses tearing over the snow, and a bright, the wind calmed. This is the bright side of the Siberian picture—the picture which officials delight in showing to distinguished tourists. And with a few hundred versts of some of them lies the awful swamp where the exiles pray for death.

Even in conservative Russia, the way of drafting the Siberian convicts has greatly changed. There was a time when the Czar's dangerous subjects made the journey on foot, guarded by Cossacks who beat them unmercifully. Men and women were made to walk 2,000 miles and more. Some were sent as far as the river Amur by the Manchurian frontier. How they survived the hardships of such a journey is a mystery. They were thrown into dungeons, starved, flogged and exposed to Siberian frosts without warm clothing. Yet some of them were dragged all the way back again and perished in Moscow at the stake.

Later on sledges were used. They were shaped like barrels and covered with hides. Mounted Cossacks escorted these convoys, which contained some of Russia's noblest men and women. Many died on the way; others lived to work in the mines, and existed for years, in spite of blindness, disease and the wardens' knout. When railways were built the journey was made in trains as far as possible, then on foot or in sledges.

Since the railway was opened the greater part of the journey to Siberia is done by train, and in out-of-the-way stations it is not unusual to see among the freight trains a wagon which differs from the rest in that it has small, heavily barred windows. Sometimes a listless face, perhaps a child's, will be peeping out. The wagon contains exiles on their way to Moscow, where they will join one of the special exile trains which now run regularly to Siberia—that is, if the word "run" can be used for anything so sad. These trains are a new departure, and were started because the number of exiles has grown to such an extent within the last year that the old way of sending them with ordinary freight trains was found impracticable.

The scene at the little station where the people begin their journey are so heart-breaking that even the stolid military escorts, who have orders to suppress undue expression of grief in their charges, are sometimes moved to tears. But as the days and nights pass the exiles lose the capacity for grief. They settle down into a dull despair, which is written on the faces of those who look listlessly from behind the bars.

Not all of them go to Siberia. Some are drafted off to the provinces of Archangel and Volodga. Here, though the winters are severe, they have some chance of getting work. But even in these "favored districts" life is full of hardships. Each exile is allowed about $112 per month. Half of this goes in rent. Food is as dear as in Russian towns, and scarcer. Many exiles arrive there without boots or overcoats—months spent in the prisons have been refuted them of these little luxuries, which have been exchanged for food or that much-prized solace—cigarettes.

Of late many inhabitants of the Naryim region have made desperate efforts to run away. Sometimes their bodies are found on the marshes. They nan started with the wild idea of walking to the nearest town, eluding the police and tramping a thousand miles or so to Europe. The Government says that such suffering will put a stop to the anarchy which reigns in Russia. Cossacks and couriers have said so for four centuries. Russia's history mocks them—daily events mock them, too. As the exile trains take their human freight to Siberia, other trains continue to bring in arms and ammunition. Hundreds of thousands of rifles and tons of explosives are piled up in Naryim at this moment. The police never will confiscate a fraction of them. Every newspaper tells tales of violence. Who can wonder? The sufferings of the Siberian exiles are being avenged.

R. C. BASKERVILLE.

SOME ENDINGS OF NOVELS.

HERE are some endings of novels, compiled by a novel reader of vast experience:

"As she gave him the first kiss of satisfied love, it seemed to them that all heaven and heaven's glory was about them."
"He opened his arms wide, and, with a glad cry, she fell upon his breast, and burst into tears."
"It all seems like a dream to me," she said.
"And this," he murmured, "this is love! Ah, married!" and the weeping girl was folded in his strong arms.
"Lillian, my darling, my wife!"
"She smiled, hung her head, and then with a little sob, put up her hand as if to guess the rest, sir."

MAKING KNOWN THE MUSIC OF AMERICA.

Composers Whose Work Has Attracted the Attention of the Old World.

IN a twilight of darkened intellect and abandoned hopes, in a New Hampshire village, one of the three, or four strongest of the younger school of American musical composers, Edward MacDowell, until lately, hard and devoted professional worker, is rounding out the term of a lifetime that has been unhappily cut short as regards its natural term, and in loyal support, alike of his memory and of his present material needs, devoted friends have organized a MacDowell society, with the object alike of adding to his slender income and of making his works better known to the general public.

So that he who was in a fine personal way, with a charm that has rarely been surpassed by any composer, has made music to fit the romantic themes of Lancelot and Elaine, of others of the Arthurian legends and of the Gaelic Cuchullin is likely to continue to come to his own in reputation as a popular favor, even though he has, unfortunately, ceased to be productive. His considerable body of works will illustrate in a manner most intelligent Americans can understand that we, as well as several present-day nations of Europe, have composers who can write things better, technically, than the stirring marches of the irrepressible John Philip Sousa, regarding whose productions an eminent German musician said to have remarked recently that he liked them so well he is actually tempted to try to set them to music.

And as to several others of the brilliant "tone composers" of our principal music centers, there has come about in the last two or three years a remarkable popular awakening of interest in their lyrics, sonatas and symphonies. This winter, in particular, the Americans have been getting something like their deserts in their own country; disproving the biting sneer of a German cynic to the effect that mankind never appreciates works of genius fresh, like grapes, but always dead and dried, like raisins. It is a badly selected symphony programme nowadays in which some piece by one of our own musicians is not featured—placed there, not because the man is an American, but because music is now being written by several of our composers that is already recognized in Europe as worthy of comparison with anything that is now being done anywhere; that is, at once professionally correct, as music is taught in the schools, and at the same time filled with a spirit of power and achievement. It is music not unworthy of the period of strenuous fecklessness. In the future it will, not unlikely, be known as the American music of the Roosevelt age—of an era when men ceased being afraid to attempt to do really ambitious things.

EDWARD MACDOWELL... ONE OF THE MOST TALENTED OF AMERICAN COMPOSERS.

FREDERICK S. CONVERSE... ONE OF THE MOST SUCCESSFUL OF THE YOUNGER SCHOOL OF MUSIC WRITERS.

GEORGE W. CHADWICK... COMPOSER OF SYMPHONIC WORKS AND OPERAS.

Three Americans who have come especially to stand out as representatives of the things American musicianship can do have been particularly in honor of late. One of these is George W. Chadwick, who was lately called to Ottawa to serve as judge in a musical competition for a trophy given by his excellency Earl Grey for the best effort by an amateur organization. Musical societies from every part of the Dominion were represented at this event. Again, only the other day Mr. Chadwick was called to Cincinnati to conduct a performance of his own works by Franz von der Stucken's well-known orchestra. Dimers and receptions proved that the musician is greatly in honor. In at least one city of his own country, the Boston Symphony Orchestra has also in its tours of the present season been featuring Mr. Chadwick's "Sinfonietta" and other works. So that Mr. Chadwick has accome distinctly a central figure in American music to-day. A second man, noted composer is Frederick S. Converse, whose "Mystic Trumpeter," based upon Walt Whitman's poem, has been well heard in several cities; whose "Festival of Pan," after abundant recognition abroad as well as at home has just been very successfully rendered by the New York Symphony Orchestra under Walter Damrosch, and whose romantic opera, "The Price of Desire," was performed for the first time in Boston about a year ago. The third is, of course, Mr.

MacDowell, just mentioned, to whom on recent programmes a great deal of personal attention has been directed, well merited, without doubt, by his haunting tone poems that seem to make an answer to the poet's query: "Who minds now Keltic tales of yore. Dark Druid rhythms that thrill, Deedre's song and wizard lore, Of Great Cuchullin's fall." These three men represent perhaps as effectively and popularly as any the entire movement among the group of the younger composers, which includes such names as those of Arthur Pooie, Edgar Stillman Kelley, Mrs. H. H. A. Beach, Miss Margaret Ruthven Lang, Horatio Parker and many more.

Mr. Chadwick in particular ranks in a peculiar manner as the dean of the group—a man well in the middle of his productive career, for he was born in 1854, and, by virtue of his directorship for many years of the oldest and largest of American music schools, the New England Conservatory of Music, Boston, exerting a professional influence upon a whole generation of candidates of the arduous but fascinating career of professional musicianship. His compositional works are already numerous enough to prompt wonder how, in the midst of the busy activities of teaching, with incessant rehearsals of the Conservatory Orchestra, to which the director gives just such time and attention as the conductor of a great symphony organization gives to something of a reputation in the United States in the eighties, and settled in Boston because in that city the conditions for composing music were more favorable than in any other, and through the later years in which he held a professorship at New York, he gave forth a "soluble series of 'Idylls,' 'Poems' and 'Woodland Sketches,' and above all of works based upon the Celtic legends which have entitled him to a place in the whole world's estimation among the most eminent composers of the late nineteenth century.

All three of these men are fond of romantic themes which they treat with classic simplicity and restraint—qualities which the two who are still teaching endeavor to impress upon their pupils. The freshness and originality of their music, and its freedom from crudeness and queerness are proof positive that the time has come when American music needs no apology and when advanced music study is possible in this country.

Modes and Stitchery For June Brides.

JUNE, favored month for bridal days, is already casting its shopping shadows ahead. The stores are filled with pretty girls on wedding finery bent, proud, fluttering mothers in attendance. And never have the counters appealed more strongly to buyers of trousseaux, for materials are more delicate in weave and coloring, more appropriate for bridal wear, than they have been in many seasons.

If there is one time in her life when even the most practical girl is justified in indulging in small extravagances it is when she is buying her wedding outfit. Indeed, that girl is to be pitied who does not yield so far as her purse will permit to the blandishments of soft fabrics, dainty trimmings and girlish colorings. The trousseau may be built upon the foundation of practical, service-giving dresses for every-day wear, but at least three of the gowns, the bridal frock, the going-away suit and one reception or house dress, should be lifted above the eminently practical plane. When prospective brides send me cloth samples for going-away gowns, in dull browns, blues or greens or sober drabs, I always wonder whether they are really happy over the matrimonial outlook. Certainly the colorings chosen do not suggest joyous anticipation.

Have plenty of serviceable dark dresses if you will, but of percale, calico, gingham or mohair for housework and the morning marketing; and let your wedding finery proper suggest the joyous combination of wedding day, roses and June.

Now for these three important frocks, wedding costume, going-away suit and reception gown. Lay aside the money that you think you can afford to spend on each and keep the amount inviolate. Do not imagine that once you have bought the material for the frock, the trimmings, shoes, gloves and hats will be added by faith. Every detail of each costume must be allowed and planned for carefully, or the final effect will be crude and inartistic.

If your purse be light, select colors and models that are not too pronounced and which will lend themselves to making over in the days when honeymoon glories have dimmed a bit. All vivid colors fade, especially in summer, and cheap, slazy fabrics will neither clean nor dye. In making your bridal finery, with trained skirts, always select a pattern which later on may be rounded off to dancing or walking length. Also in your wedding dress, employ a yoke or bracelet effect, so that later the gumpie yoke may be removed and you can utilize the frock for dinner or party wear. Very few women feel that they can afford to buy a wedding dress just to lay it away as a family heirloom. In this practical age, brides make constant use of the gown, and lay aside perhaps the veil, orange blossoms and gloves, with other small trifles, as mementoes of the day.

The least expensive of wedding frocks and the most practical for summer wear are those built from wash materials, such as lawn, dotted Swiss, sheer dimity, batiste, etc., trimmed not too lavishly, but daintily with fine embroidery or a good quality of German val and Cluny lace. A lovely princess gown of batiste with skirt panels of embroidery, imitating Irish lace, was bought ready-made by a prospective bride, and touched up daintily with home stitches. The sleeves were elbow length and quite severe, being strapped with embroidery bands, while the neck was cut square and finished with the same bands. The bride-to-be, who, by the way, will hold her position as stenographer until just before her wedding day, simply transformed that gown into a thing of beauty by the aid of several bolts of fine German val lace, insertion and edging. She made a gumpie of the insertion and edging combined, then edged all the severe-looking embroidered hands with val lace. At intervals on the gumpie, and for a finish for each of the embroidered bands on waist, sleeve and skirt, she made garlands of roses from fine tape ribbon, in what is known as pompadour embroidery, a very simple but popular form of decoration. The pattern may be stamped or drawn upon the cloth and then the ribbon is shirred on finely to simulate embroidery. For the wedding gown it must be pure white. For other gowns it is used in pale tints, pastel blue, pink, lavender, green or yellow.

A dotted Swiss, made princess with a train, can be very effectively trimmed with German val and narrow, white ribbon, both of which should be bought by the bolt. A full seven-gore skirt pattern may be used, and instead of ruffles, narrow double ruchings of the material, plain or edged with the lace, are applied to the skirt, in great scoops; and where the scoops join, there are rosettes of lace and white ribbon. The neck shows a gumpie of lace, joined by fine ruchings of the ribbon, while a deep bib or bertha, made of the dotted Swiss, encrusted with lace medallions, outlined by lace edging and ribbon rosettes, brings the frock right up to date. With this should be worn white kid slippers, a tulle veil, a tiny spray of orange blossoms at the side of the coiffure (the wreath has gone out) and long white kid gloves. All the sleeves on this year's wedding gowns are three-quarters or elbow length, so the gloves are an item to be counted upon. The neck of a summer gown may be cut square or round, and then filled in with a gumpie, but some June brides will wear the low neck, despite tradition to the contrary. The average woman will feel much better satisfied, however, if she has the throat filled in with lace, tucked chiffon or other semi-transparent fabric.

Next in point of expense to the washable gown comes the inexpensive silk, the draped with tulle, net, gauze, chiffon, or one of the new, fine silk voiles. The latter are by all odds the most novel and practical weaves for moderately-priced wedding gowns, and they may be trimmed with embroidered bands and shaped pieces, with lace or ribbon. They lend themselves particularly well to the new jacket or bolero designs for wedding gowns.

The design shown in the illustration was built of silk voile over supple tulle. The dress is of a simple, elegant design, with a high collar and long sleeves. The skirt is full and flows down to the floor. The dress is adorned with delicate lace and ribbon details.

fetas, and trimmed with the same goods, embroidered in the pompadour ribbon work described above. The gored skirt hangs in long, sweeping folds and is without trimmings, save for the self-fabric trimming which is cut like applique work, with one straight and one scalloped edge. In each scallop is a bit of the pompadour embroidery, showing a spray of roses. The Empire lines are suggested by the embroidered straps under the arms, which confine all fullness of the cloth, and a similar strap, finished at either end with a rose rosette of ribbon or lace, confines the fullness in the front. The round yoke, with upper edges scalloped, is of the cloth embroidered in ribbon work, and with this a lace rumpie can be worn. The elbow sleeves have embroidered, turn-back cuffs. All the embroidered pieces might be made of satin or silk, or the same design in one of the soft silks like liberty, messaline or the novelty crepe weaves could be trimmed with the scalloped lace edgings, picked out with ribbon flowers.

Most expensive of all are the severely plain brocades, satins, silks, etc., which, like those worn by our grandmothers, will almost stand alone. Not only does the foundation fabric count up a pretty penny, but the trimmings and all accessories must be most expensive in proportion. A cheap satin or silk, made in princess style with ordinary lace garniture, is almost a caricature on a wedding gown.

Timely Hints For Bridal Lingerie.

WHILE pedigrees of needlework are no longer performed by prospective brides and the linen trousseau of Miss 1907 is decidedly less important than it was in the days of her great grandmother, less sentiment about making at least part of their wedding lingerie. Factors and women's exchanges alike offer underwear worthy of a place in the trousseau, but there is still room and time for individual stitchery.

Half a dozen matching sets the modern girl considers quite sufficient, though her grandmother made twice and often thrice as many. Perhaps this is because there are fashions in lingerie as well as frocks. To-day certain laws are laid down for even the simplest of underwear. It must fit snugly around the hips, it must be hand-made if it is truly smart, and it must follow the lines of the gowns over which it is to be worn, if these are to be Princess or Empire. The Empire lines are shown in nightgowns particularly. Japanese sleeves are much seen on both nightgowns and negligees, the two parts of the sleeve being tied together with dainty, lustrous wash ribbons. Cluny lace is as popular for underwear as for bodices and frocks and hand embroidery, especially in fine running vine patterns, is almost essential to combine with the Cluny.

The chemise is again very much in vogue, but it is the privilege of the slender girl and must be avoided by the girl with large waist measurements and big hips. The new underwear, especially the drawers, are fitted as snugly as a gown, and the draw string for the stout woman has practically disappeared.

The girl of limited purse should avoid cheap lawns and laces in making her lingerie. A belt of nainsook or long cloth from a dollar a bolt up is much more economical than flimsy lawn at ten cents a yard or less. It also pays to buy embroidery in length and lace by the bolt. Even if the pattern of the lace or embroidery is the same on different sets, the manner of applying it may be varied to give great variety. For instance, the same pattern of torchon lace, applied to both supple and round neck corset covers, gives a very different effect. Five sets made of nainsook or long cloth, and one extra fine set of batiste or linen lawn to wear under the wedding gown will be quite sufficient for the average girl. In buying lace remember that torchon and German val, of a good quality, outwear either French val or point de Paris, ruffles edged with moderately narrow lace will outwear very deep lace flounces, and the smartest embroideries do not show large, open patterns, but scallops with tiny figures in each to simulate convent hand work. Flounces of any depth on skirts, chemises, night dresses and drawers are joined to the garment by beading, and women of good taste prefer very fine beading, with narrow, white ribbon run through it, to the more striking effect of wide beading and broad, bright-colored ribbon. Many of the up and down seams are outlined also by fine beading or narrow embroidery, but no ribbon is run through this.

The newest touch of all underwear is given by the use of insets of lace, insertion applied in scroll patterns and medallions of lace or embroidery, plain or surrounded by narrow frills of lace, these insets, together with hand work ing, give the garment the French look which casts the best of factory-made goods into the shade.

Some simple yet effective designs are shown in the accompanying illustrations. Perhaps the most interesting is the new combination petticoat, drawers

COMBINATION SUIT

Little Things That Mean Good Table Manners.

NEVER take your seat until the lady of the house is seated. Never lounge on the table with your elbows, nor tip backward in your chair.

Never play with your knives, forks or glasses, but cultivate repose at the table. It is an aid to digestion.

Never tuck your napkin into your vest, yoke or collar. It is unfolded once and laid across the knees without a flourish. After the meal, at a restaurant or formal dinner, lay it unfolded at your place. If you are a time guest in the household and will remain another meal, you may fold the napkin in its original creases.

Never put the end of a spoon into your mouth, sip everything from the side of the spoon, and do this noiselessly.

Never put your knife in your mouth nor use a spoon when a fork will serve. Forks are now used for eating ice cream, and salad is folded or cut with the side of a fork, never with the knife. Even small vegetables like peas are eaten with a fork.

Never hold your knife and fork up in the air when your host is serving you afresh. Lay them on one side of the plate when you send it to the host by servant or your neighbor at table.

Never leave your spoon in coffee or tea-cup. Lay it on the saucer.

Never cool food by blowing upon it. Wait until it becomes cool enough to eat.

Never take a second helping at a large and formal dinner. You will find yourself eating alone.

Never make yourself conspicuous in any way by aiding the host or hostess in serving, unless especially asked to do so, or in passing dishes when servants are provided for the purpose.

Never push back your plate and finger crumbs at the conclusion of the meal. It indicates undue haste.

Remember that—

Large pieces of bread or cracker are broken into smaller pieces before being buttered and carried to the mouth. Cakes may be broken and eaten like bread or crackers or it may be eaten with a fork.

Celery, olives, radishes, salted nuts, bonbons, preserved ginger and other trifles are eaten from the fingers, but berries, melons and grape-fruit must be eaten with a spoon, bananas are generally eaten with a fork, peaches, apples and pears are peeled, quartered and cut into small pieces and then picked up with the fingers.

Grapes and small plums are eaten from the fingers, and the stones or skins taken into the hand and carried to the plate, never dropped from the lips. Prune seeds are best pressed out with the spoon before the fruit is eaten and then laid to one side on the plate.

The tender asparagus tips must be cut off with a fork and the remainder of the stalk goes to waste.

Bones of fowl, game or chops must not be taken in the fingers, but green corn may be eaten that way.

Artichokes, source of much grief to the inexperienced diner, if served hot or cold with sauce must be broken apart, leaf by leaf, and the tip dipped in the sauce, and eaten from the fingers. The heart is cut up and eaten with a fork.

Finger bowls are provided merely to moisten the finger tips, not for a general handwashing.

Your host who inquires what portion of poultry or game, rare meat or well done, you prefer will thank you for a definite answer. If you really have no preference, say so definitely. Do not enumerate various cuts that appeal to you.

Water As a Beautifier.

THIS is the season of the year when your great-grandmother brought out the bottle of sulphur and molasses. All sorts of bitter nostrums were the accompaniment of first spring days. The severe doctor's bill was almost inevitable. Druggists did a brisk business from the moment that March went out like a lamb, and "spring fever" made itself felt.

To-day, the up-to-date girl fights spring and kindred ills with water, cheapest and safest of all remedies. She uses it plain in the form of baths, external and internal, and mixed with some mild home remedy, to fight various small ailments.

Here is a water cure admirably fitted to the slim girl who needs building up. The few exercises which accompany the baths will reduce the waist measurement and increase bust and chest, and incidentally improve the carriage.

The first thing on rising in the morning she drinks a glassful of cold water. This is not taken fast, but with deliberation.

Next comes her bath. If accustomed to the cold plunge, she takes one quick dip in the cold water and is ready for her rub-down. If not inured to this heroic treatment, it is safer for her to enter the tub with the water tepid or even comfortably warm, gradually cooling it off until she realizes that it is as cold as she can stand it. The girl who is really ambitious to secure results from the water regimen will not go down before a few chilly sensations, and may depend upon her feelings in deciding upon the temperature she can stand. No one—not even an experienced physician—can determine the amount of endurance against cold or heat, but nature will cry "Enough."

The drawers are generously full and the skirt portion is attached to them and laid in inverted plaits at the back. The lower edges are finished with frills and the drawers and skirt are joined to the corset cover by means of a narrow belt or beading, the closing being made at the front.

The quantity of material required for the medium size is four and one-quarter yards thirty-six inches wide, with three and one-half yards of beading, three and one-half yards of insertion and eight and one-half yards of edging to trim as illustrated.

The trimming design can be varied by running insertion and tucking down the front of the corset cover section, and making a deeper flounce for the drawers, with fine tucks and insertion joined in a succession of deep plaits and finished all the way around the bottom by an edge varying in width from an inch to two inches.

Another combination garment illustrated is the princess slip for wear under transparent summer frocks. This can be made high or low neck, and as simply or ornately as the pure silks. Particularly pretty is the bl effect of insertion and edging with draped sleeves to match, all at asked to the garment by beading run with ribbon. These bits made of lace or lace and embroidery are done separately from the garment, and then attached cradle, with the abdomen resting on the floor. Now rock back and forth gently, with the abdomen as the base of the movement. One or two motions will suffice for the initial trial, and the worker should relax completely before trying it again. This stretches the muscles, and increases the height, but it must be practiced with discretion, and the patient should not exhaust herself.

If there exists the slightest tendency to catarrh, she is now ready to treat her nostrils and throat with water from which the chill has been removed. If the tendency is not pronounced, she uses pure water or salt and water. If she is suffering from chronic catarrh, or an acute attack, she uses a soothing disinfectant in the proportions of one teaspoonful of the disinfectant to one cup of water. The atomizer or syringe is no longer used in flushing the throat, and nose, but there comes a small glass nasal douche which can be purchased from any druggist, that is safer and more effective than the old-fashioned instrument. A small air-chamber presses out the water, when the douche is applied to the nostrils, and there is no sudden shock to the delicate membrane of the nose and throat, but a gentle flushing.

And now the patient is ready for her second glass of cold water, which she drinks while dressing. At intervals during the rest of the day, she will drink six more glasses of water, making eight in all.

KATHERINE MORTON.

TO GET RICH QUICK.

AN easy and quick way to get rich is to invent something good, and then to market this invention wisely. There follows a list of much-needed inventions, compiled from the notebook of an inventor, who is a millionaire. This man declares that in any one of the following inventions a fortune of seven figures lies.

A silent typewriter. The great objection to typewriters is their noise, yet it should be easy to deaden the click of the keys. A silent typewriter would at once out all the rattlers.

An automatic stamp affixer. To affix a postage stamp to a letter, there is no method but the awkward one of dampening the stamp and pressing it on the envelope with the hand. The world needs an automatic letter-stamp. This should be an instrument shaped like a seal. It should carry in its interior a hundred or more stamps. Pressed upon an envelope, an inside mechanism should first moisten the stamp and then fix it firmly on the letter. Such a contrivance, capable of stamping a hundred letters a minute, would sell like hot cakes at a tremendous price.

An unshrinkable flannel. The best of flannels may shrink. A man may pay $10 or $12 for a pair of flannel trousers, and at their first cleaning they may dwindle into Knickerbockers. A woman may pay $25 or $30 for a skirt of flannel, and at its first cleaning it may draw up to her knees. Some chemical solution that will make flannel unshrinkable would, if patented, sell at a high rate per barrel.

A rotary toothbrush. Dentists clean their patients' teeth with a brush, as round as a marble, that revolves by electrical or by foot power. The dentist moves this brush slowly over the teeth, and, whizzing powerfully, it cleanses more thoroughly than the most violent rubbing of an ordinary toothbrush could do. A rotary brush, revolving from the pressure of the hand, would afford an easier and a better way to clean the teeth than the world now possesses, and hence it would sell well.

A cheap substitute for rubber. A flying machine.

front or back, and the Japanese sleeves tied with wash ribbons. It also shows the popular application of lace insertion in the body of the gown, when a yoke is not used. The beading at the throat should be selected to carry not less than No. 2 wash ribbon.

not to be—not for the present, at least. After all, however, the Manxman is in no worse case than the immortal bard whom he is said to resemble, for there is still no Shakespeare Theater in London, despite many gallant attempts to establish such an institution. No, Bernard Shaw has come nearer than any other dramatist—ancient or modern—to having a London theater devoted to his works, for though other pieces than those of the Irishman are done at the Court, its prosperity is due to him, and it is rightly associated with his name. Some of his pieces have fallen there, it is true, but his successes have now kept over the Sloan Square theater going for over two years. At present "You Never Know" is the only play being produced in all London's theaters, and the place, as is on view, and it is to be followed by "The Man and the Superman." This, by the way, is the first on an extra flip by the simultaneous production at matinees—of the famous third act and which will be played under the title of "Don Juan in Hell!" "The Jokers" ever produced in London is "The Van Dyck," a one-act adaptation from the original play, which was given at His Majesty's a few nights ago. It is originally done at the famous "Grand Theatre," and is certainly sure to be seen in America. The play is a play for about twenty-five minutes, and about an evening visit which is a cosmopolitan play, and it is a play to the flat of a little "bouncer" named Peter. The latter is an order of the play, and is a play of art, most of which, we learn, have been obtained for a song from poor Peter. The play is a play of art. Among them is what Peter has purchased for a Van Dyck, but which is a play of art. It is however, the only friend in the collection.

death, and to illustrate it makes a savage attack on the terrified collector, who, at the critical moment, however, the door opens and a crowd of several attendants burst in and overpower Woldingham. They explain that the doctor has been taken to an asylum and that they have tracked him down. It is evident that the continued presence of his late host still enrages Woldingham, and he is determined that if he would mind withdrawing into the next room. Immediately he disappears, and the doctor, the visitors and the supposed lunatic are left alone. They are simply a gang of crooks, and while Woldingham keeps Peters from returning, the doctor is determined to run and call for his blood, the flap of the door of every single thing it contains—except the spurious Van Dyck. When he has finished his work, the re-enters he is naturally paralyzed as the sight of the bare room, stripped of its furniture, strikes his eyes. Then, however, he brightens up, "There it is," he says, "there's my life, there's my life," he says, "there's my life."

The thing is a little masterpiece by reason of the cleverness with which the author conceals his real purpose. The first-night audience at His Majesty's alternated between roars of laughter and thrills of horror, and could not make up their minds until three minutes before the end whether it was comedy or tragedy they were witnessing.

PADEREWSKI'S NEXT TOUR.

THE coming of Paderewski will be one of the principal events of the musical season of 1907-1908. As on his previous two tours he will be under the management of Charles A. Ellis, of Boston, Paderewski will arrive in New York in the end of October, and his first appearance in this country will be in a recital to be given in Carnegie Hall, New York, on Saturday afternoon, November 2.

It is planned now that he will remain in America until well into the spring, and will play probably one hundred times. His tour will extend to the Pacific Coast. He will play a number of times with the Boston Symphony Orchestra. It is expected also that he will bring with him the complete score of his new symphony, which will have its first performance anywhere in the Boston Symphony Orchestra in Boston, under the direction of Sir Arthur Nicolson.

there, with then the play is earned down. Now, for the life of me, I can't be sure whether the third act satisfied this demand on the opening night. This official report on Widow Alcott's naughtiness is in her 'old-lover's pocket, and the widow does, and so does an aged but gallant Count Hegedy, who desires to marry her nevertheless. Well, now, the Count's wife has had to have herself 'depends on the publicity or privacy of that paper. The countess, however, is a woman who has thrown it into the fire of a grate. Have you got that? And so, if you would, you be the author, drop your quill pen, and go to bed. Poor old Count Hegedy do not. They give heart disease to Hegedy, so that the row may agitate the Countess, and so that the Count's death puts the heroine out of the story right at the third act's climax. That is the end of the play, and the end of 'The Ambitious Mrs. Alcott' remembers Sardou's 'Diplomacy' with no similar success.

There are single lines which, in the course of years of playacting, retain an ineffaceable place in the mind long after the play has been explaining them are forgotten. Such a line is the last of the first of 'A Marriage of Reason.' It was night at Belcombe Abbey. Suits of armor were hanging on the wall, and the ladies, in their evening dress, were about the ancestral halls. The youthful heir to the title lay dangerously ill, and the house party, in decollete as the ladies, were waiting for the young dress as to the gentlemen, breathlessly awaited the news from the sick room. The Countess, in the midst of these sentimental relations and developed complications in passionate wishes, and the ancestral armor threw back the glitter of a diamond tiara.

the impressive, impassioned person who has been the subject of the asks: "And who will sit up with the trained nurse." The question is not whether anything is wrong with the audience, taking the uncommon pretense of the nurse into account, considering that the nurse is the one who "sit up" with her, as we Yankees use the terms for what the English author would call "nursing." The nurse, of course, the sick boy causes the "reasonably married" pair to find out that the nurse is not a nurse, but a girl falling into mutual love. It is a pretty but not strong comedy, and it exhibits the same good and bad qualities that Ward nicely but not engrossingly.

Probably it isn't worth while to attempt a classification of the numerous comedies that have been produced in the past. Their producers call them light operas, comic operas, musical comedies and musicals, but they are all of the same designation. One of the interperations for Broadway is a half-hour travesty of grand opera, entitled "The Song Birds," in which fun is made of the opposition operahouses of Heinrich Heine and Richard Wagner. The plot is the portion of the entertainment provided by Herbert and Hobart, and in it Corried and Hammerstein put their celebrated characters, Boni and Eames and Melba, with the rival choruses through a singing match. The caricaturing is good, and as New York is a city of the theatre, the controversy the burlesque makes a humorous appeal.

Chicago was the city of "The Land of Nod's" start, and I can't tell you about its process of development. As given here it has Mabel Barrison and Helen

FRANKLIN FYLES
PLAYS AND THE PLAYERS.

Sothern and Marlowe will be unable to present Gabriel D'Annunzio's play, "The Daughter of Jorio," during their present engagement in New York. It is said that the author claims the right to supervise rehearsals, and as he cannot come to America this year, he has forbidden the use of the play. It is probable that D'Annunzio will go to London during the stars' engagement at the Waldorf Theater there, and that the first performance of the play will be given at that time.

W. A. Brady has surrendered his lease of the Manhattan Theater to Al. H. Woods and Samuel Gumpertz, who took possession of the house on March 1. The new management presented "Mrs. Warren's Profession" as the opening play, with Rose Coghlan in the leading role. The lease runs until May 1, when the property will be taken by the McAdoo Tunnel Company for use in their construction work.

The next comedy to be presented by the Rogers Brothers will be called "The Rogers Brothers In Spain." The book is being written by Edgar Smith and the score by Max Hoffman.

Far be from me the desire to agitate Washington office-society circles, but Percival Pollard is, or has been, a Washington journalist, and in his play he gives a portrait of that Senator as a man in place that Senator a jolly chubby wife and a sensibly sentimental daughter. The cause, but for his reputation as a journalist, I would assume that his collaborator, Dittichstein, had indulged in a habit of adapting German plays asserting them to be original in English. It is a fact, too, that there is

CONFERENCE IN WASHINGTON.

Washington, April 6.—Secretary Root and Mexican Ambassador Cretel to-day decided that the time was ripe for concerted action to terminate hostilities in Central America if that result could be accomplished by moral suasion and earnest representations, beyond which point neither the United States nor Mexico is willing to go.

This conclusion was reached after a patient study of the daily developments of the war between Nicaragua and Honduras and long abstention by the neutral Governments of Central America and the United States and Mexico from any intervention between the belligerents, in the vain hope that they would themselves come to terms of peace without involving the remainder of Central America.

The appearance in Washington of a minister from Salvador with large powers, believed also to be authorized to speak for Honduras, seemed to afford the opportunity for diplomatic action here. Therefore a series of conferences began early to-day at the State Department between these interested parties which, it is stated by the participants, will lead to a peaceful settlement of the troubles, and moreover, one that will endure longer than the few months that frequently marks the life of these Central American compacts. The basis for the agreement is yet to be defined in its details, indeed it was stated that beyond the agreement among the parties to the conference that the time had now come for action by them, the plan had not been perfected.

A notable fact was the absence of the Nicaraguan Minister, Senor Corea. It was suggested that the purpose of the conference to frame an agreement for the future settlement of all disputes between Central American countries and to submit this to Nicaragua and request her adhesion, falling which that country would find herself standing alone among the Central American States and without their sympathy. It is believed that a few days will bring about important developments and that either peace will be declared or a general war will follow between Nicaragua on one side and the remaining four States on the other.

LIKELY TO BE SETTLED

Without Embroiling Other Republics
Says Minister Mejia.

Washington, April 6.—The war between Honduras and Nicaragua, according to Frederico Mejia, the new Salvadoran Minister to the United States, will likely be settled without embroiling other Central American republics. Senor Mejia said:

"It is highly to the interest of the republics of Salvador, Costa Rica, and Guatemala that peace should be brought about as soon as possible in order to avoid the chance that the war may be extended into their respective domains."

Who that end the representatives of these countries here will do all they can. Meanwhile those countries have found it expedient to mobilize troops on their respective frontiers. When I left home Salvador had about 2,500 men on the border, though it would be possible to increase that number to 25,000. "Even though Salvador, Costa Rica, and Guatemala are not directly engaged in the war, they necessarily suffer as long as the war continues. Their commerce is destroyed to a large extent and business must be dormant for the time being."

FULHAM'S REPORT

Ralls of Naval Activities On Coast of Honduras.

Washington, April 6.—Details of the extent of the naval activity on the coast of Honduras during the present war are contained in the following extracts from the report of Commander Fulham just received by mail:

The commanding officer of the U. S. S. Marietta has reported to the Navy Department the arrival at Truxillo, Honduras, March 18, 1907, when he found in the harbor four Nicaraguan vessels. The Nicaraguan troops, commanded by Gen. Estrada, were in full possession of the town, which they had captured on the 12th.

A schooner flying the American flag, having been refused permission to take on board provisions and fruit, and the fruit steamer Sula, chartered by an American firm, having been refused authority to land cargo and clear with bananas for Mobile, the commanding officer of the Marietta, after conference with the General commanding the Nicaraguan forces, obtained the removal of all restrictions upon the vessels, and they were allowed to receive supplies and cargo and sail from the port upon their intended voyage. With the consent of the Nicaraguan General, the Marietta landed ten bluejackets under the command of Ensign Horne, U. S. N., as a guard for the protection of the American consulate. This guard is still on shore in charge of the consulate, and American interests had not up to the date of the report of the commanding officer of the Marietta been seriously interfered with by either the Nicaraguan or the Honduran forces.

The American Consul Agent at Truxillo has given protection to the women and children of all nationalities inside the harbor in case of the consulate grounds. Several representatives of other nations had done the same. Quiet and good order prevailed throughout the town.

ARRESTED OF MANSLAUGHTER

For Aid In His Defense.

Lexington, Ky., April 6.—[Special.]—Former Lieut. Gov. M. C. Alford was much perplexed to-night by receiving the following telegram:

"Colton, Cal. Have been arrested for manslaughter for Colton wreck. Advise. LEE R. ALFORD."

Mr. Alford had never heard of Lee R. Alford before, and while he presumes that the man must belong to the same branch of his family he is at a loss to place him. From the wording of the telegram the man is presumed to have been an engineer or fireman on some train which was wrecked. Mr. Alford will make inquiries as to his correspondent's identity, and if he finds him a relative of his he will communicate with him and furnish what aid he can.

DOUBTS POWER TO REMAND
CASE TO BREATHITT.

POLARD WRITES STATEMENT.

Lexington, Ky., April 6.—[Special.]—O. H. Polard, of Jackson, one of the leading attorneys for Judge James Hargis, arrived in Lexington last night and remained here to-day. After reading the report published in the Courier-Journal of the efforts of Attorneys Joubert and Adams, of the prosecution, to have the case sent back from Elliott to Breathitt county, Mr. Polard to-night made the following written statement of the Hargis side of the case from his standpoint, as Judge Hargis' friend and attorney:

"I was not aware until my attention was called to the fact after my arrival in Lexington that the attorneys employed to prosecute Judge Hargis were making an effort to have the Court of Appeals remand the case to Breathitt county. The proposition strikes me as being absurd. Judge Carnes granted the change of venue on the motion of the Commonwealth, based upon the written statement, over the signature of the Commonwealth's Attorney, that there existed such a state of lawlessness in Breathitt county that a fair trial of the case could not be had in Breathitt county. After the motion of the Commonwealth for change of venue was sustained by the court and the case was transferred to Elliott county, the attorneys for the Commonwealth then asked leave of the court to withdraw the motion and try the case in Breathitt county. This play on the part of the prosecution strikes the unbiased mind as an anomalous position for a representative of law and justice to take."

Lawlessness In Breathitt.

"The attorney for the Commonwealth says over his signature that a fair trial cannot be had in Breathitt owing to the existence of a state of lawlessness. If he stated the truth, and the statement being made by his official signature, carries with it the presumption of truth, the question arises, upon what theory of justice and right can this same official now ask that the case be remanded to a state of lawlessness? According to his official statement, a fair trial cannot be had. Are these gentlemen going to the Court of Appeals on record and ask the very fountain of justice to say this case shall be tried in a county where justice cannot be had? I cannot believe that the alleged appeal is taken in good faith."

"The Court of Appeals is not a court of original jurisdiction. I do not believe it is within the province of that court to remand the case. The Judge of Breathitt Circuit Court having transferred the case to Elliott county, the motion to remand should first be made in the Elliott Circuit Court, and after the Judge of that court, a court of original jurisdiction has passed on the motion to remand, the Court of Appeals might review his action."

If every motion in this case is to be reviewed by the Court of Appeals before trial, and every question in this case has to be first taken to the Appellate Court and settled by it before trial, it would be better to transfer the whole case to the Court of Appeals and let it resolve itself into a court of original jurisdiction and try Hargis direct. The proposition is absurd, and in my judgment will be treated so by the bar of the State and by the Appellate Court."

WITNESSES SUMMONED.

Ready For Trial of Felt French In Breathitt.

Beattyville, Ky., April 6.—Many witnesses have been summoned in the case of the Commonwealth against B. Fulton French, John Smith and John Abner, set for trial Monday. An order has just been received from Special Judge John L. Dorsey, asking that Most Feltner, Sam Fields, Ruck Cottage and Marshall Cottage, who now live in Hamilton, O., be here and testify in behalf of the Commonwealth.

The defendants are accused of complicity in the assassination of Attorney James B. Marcum four years ago.

"I lost a lot of money on account of the San Francisco disaster," declared the first giver.

"How was that?"

"By not being there."

BUSY DAY

Bryce.ATTENDS LUNCHEON, DINNER AND BANQUET.VISITS MANY OF THE CITY'S

AN INTERESTING ADDRESS.

Chicago, April 6.—James Bryce, Ambassador from Great Britain to the United States, was one of the busiest men in Chicago to-day. During the day he attended a luncheon, a dinner, and visited a score of large commercial and industrial establishments, and to-night was the guest of honor at a banquet given by the Commercial Club.

There were 175 prominent business and professional men about the board, and the red, white and blue in the form of St. Andrew's cross faced from one end of the hall the red, white and blue of the Stars and Stripes at the other. Ambassador Bryce was the only speaker. His topic was "The Modern City in Relation to the State," and what he had to say was of much interest to Chicagoans. Mr. Bryce's address follows:

What are the functions of a proper city government and what kind of work ought it to undertake for the benefit of the community?

Municipal work seems to fall into three classes. There are certain functions which are vital and indispensable, because the individual citizen living in a very large community cannot do them for himself or herself. They must be done by an organization which covers the whole city. One of these is the maintenance of public safety; that is to say, the police. Among other functions are drainage, street paving and cleaning, the care of public health and making of sanitary regulations and general building regulations, and protection from fire.

A second class of municipal functions covers those which might possibly be undertaken by the individual citizen, but which are undertaken by such authorities, corporations—what we call in England "public companies." Such are the provisions of the house of light, whether of gas or electricity; street railways, the telephone, and the provision and regulation of markets. There is also the care of the poor and public education.

A third class of municipal activities covers matters which may or may not be given to a public local authority, and which in Britain are in a few places only undertaken by such authorities. One of these is the provision of public lodging-houses, of public baths and wash-houses, and of dwellings for the laboring classes. What has been done in this direction in the United States is of great interest, and opinion is not yet fixed as to the desirability of making this a part of municipal work.

Much depends upon whether the particular work to be done is in the nature of a monopoly. For instance, the supply of water is almost necessarily a monopoly. You cannot have a number of water companies undertaking to supply each citizen by their own pipes. Still less can you have rival street railway companies laying down their rails in the same streets, because there would not be room for them. It is a matter either undertaken by the city or handed over to one corporation, which would become a monopolist, at least for one particular part of the city. And the same thing is true of lighting. Now, where there is a monopoly it is strongly urged in England that the profits which a monopoly may earn and the increased value which the growth of a city gives to such a monopoly as that of street transportation ought to belong to the public.

The financial results of some branches of municipal work are much disputed, and to present general conclusions on the subject would be at this moment premature. This much, however, may be said: It is a pre-condition to the giving to a municipal authority of any control over public work and public utilities which are not necessary to the very existence of the city, that the authority itself should be honest and capable; that is to say, that the administrators should be upright men, the intelligent men. Whether they are honest and capable, the conditions of the particular city. It will depend mainly on the public spirit of the citizens—and the sense of civic duty which animates them. If there is a lively sense of public duty and of the responsibility of each individual citizen for the good government of the community, if he gives an honest vote, based on the judgment of the character of the candidates, if he watches the conduct of those who administer on its behalf and calls them to strict account for any misdoings, it will obviously be to the interest of the municipality that it should be entrusted with the functions which otherwise it might be desirable to withhold.

compelling Chief of Police J. A. Thompson, to whom the papers had been given by the regular Judge, when he vacated the bench, to deliver the papers to the County Court.

This, the chief of police refused to do, stating that he would go to jail rather than deliver the papers to that court. Meanwhile the election of a special Judge proceeded, but not a member of the local bar was qualified to act. Every one declining on the grounds that he had formed an opinion as to the guilt of the accused.

When it was found that no one could be gotten to preside, the City Attorney stated that his authority ceased his duty being merely to hold the election, and he left the court room. The big crowd then left as did also the men accused. was sued out before Judge Burton, great deal of interest was taken in the proceedings, which proceeded to be without precedent in local legal circles. Immediately after the cases were called, the attorneys for the defense filed an affidavit swearing Judge John R. Thompson, as off the bench, alleging that it would be impossible to obtain an impartial trial before him. The Judge at once vacated. Then came a long wrangle among the half dozen or more attorneys on both sides over the disposition of the cases.

The prosecution claimed that the proper method of procedure was the election of a special Judge from the bar. The defense's position was that the cases should be tried before the County Judge, John A. Burton. City Attorney H. S. McElroy proceeded to hold the election though counsel for the defense refused to recognize his authority to do so or to take part in it. While the election was being held a mandamus was sued out before Judge Burton, St. Louis, Mo., April 6.—[Special.]—Charles Burnett, ex-Recorder of Deeds and now Deputy Federal Marshal at El Reno, Okla., was married at Clayton, late to-day to Margaret Houston, of Louisville, Ky. The marriage was evidently an elopement as both appeared disappointed when they learned that announcement would be made in newspapers. Neither would give any information of their plans, further than to say they would go back to El Reno to live. The groom's age was given as forty-six, and the bride is thirty-two. They arrived at Clayton after the marriage license office had been closed, but obtained a license and were married by Justice Herman Jacobmeier. They admitted they met here by appointment to get married.

NEW ORLEANS, April 6.—[Special.]

One of the best jumping races witnessed for some time was unfortunately marred by the accident to Gould, which broke its leg. The mishap occurred at the water jump, directly in front of the stand, and the unsightly scene of the horse hobbling on three legs had the effect of placing a damper on the enthusiasm of the crowd.

With the destroying of Gould, which was fourteen years old, one of the best-known old jumpers of the West passed out of being. This was to have been the old horse's last race, as it was the intention of his owner, J. Schlatt, to turn him out on his property at the next week.

The running of the Lyric Handicap, at a mile and a half and carrying an added value to the winner of $1,000, proved anything but a race-raiser, as Lancasterian, Charlie Ellison's good, Kingston colt, made a runaway of the race, winning all the way in the slow time of 2:38.5.

The Ellison trick shot to the fore with the release of the rubber and carry the Corrigans colors to victory in the event, showed very little class at any portion of the journey, and was all out to beat James Reddick, Ellison's colt, at a driving finish. The latter in turn was a lucky third over Harry Stephens, the outsider in the betting.

Once again W. H. Fizer and his friends swept everything before them and pulled off a killing of no mean character on the victory of Morales in the seven-furlong sprint. From an opener at 55, Morales was the medium of such a keen and continuous play that little better than 2 to 1 could be had at post time. Minder got the fiber trick off winging when the start came, and he was brought after in danger, winning with some thing to spare over the heavily-played Goldblatt entry.

This afternoon marked the close of the first week of the first season of racing at the local tracks this season. Just seven more days of the sport remain, and then the owners will have all shipped away to Louisiana for the winter.

The game has dragged greatly during the past two weeks, owing to the inferior class of horses entered in the Washington, Kentucky stakes for two-year-olds at four and a half furlongs.

Billie Hibbs was rushed to the front by Jockey Smith as the barrier flew up and he won by six lengths in 1:27.35, up in the hands of the favorite.

Billie was an added straggler, but not to figure. Summaries:

Three Blind School Stars.

ADRIAN SHORT, BOWLING; ELIJAH BROWN, JUMPS; ELWOOD SHORT, FOOTBALL.

THE above trio of athletes have made wonderful records as members of the various athletic teams of the Kentucky Institution for the Blind, and to them belongs a large share of the credit of the success of the institution upon the athletic field.

Elijah Brown, who was the star of the school track team of '04 and '06, holds the jumping record of the institution, which he will probably break in the Manual-First Regiment indoor meet. He is a good rope climber, a fast sprinter and a star tackle on the football team.

HANLONIAN PHILOSOPHY.

Pitchers sent to the slab too often sometimes break a record—for consecutive defeats. Victories are scarce with them.

It's not always the big fellow that has the big batting average. The little fellow who knows how frequently beats him.

Because a player is an Irishman is no sign that he is a good mixer, sir—or mixer, if you prefer it. Many a Celtic player has been known to be a decided crab.

Never judge a player by the balls he bats over the fence with hitting fun. It's the man who makes the base hits in a scheduled game who gets the average.

John Barleycorn never won any pennants with a team that he trained. Out of old John's specialties—Old Bud, Barleycorn, Potheman and Wurtzberger—for the time being.

Because a man played good ball five years ago is no reason why he should be allowed to draw salary this year. It's the player with the present and future, not the one with a past, that wins pennants.

Comedy on the field is pleasing to a certain class of spectators, but give me the man with a batting average of .300 and a fielding average of .950 in preference to the clown with a laugh-provoking record of 1,000.

Show me a man who says "I'll try" more than a 50 per cent. chance of making good. It's the boy with the excuse who has much to do with keeping the minor leagues supplied with players.

Some players like to live over the happy days of childhood by taking naps in the afternoon, just about the time a crucial moment comes up in the game. These disciples of Morpheus should either get into an electric light league or secure positions as night watchmen.

A college education is a fine thing, but ability to read Sanscrit, recite Homer, box the compass, pull a tooth or prepare a writ of habeas corpus won't punch out a base hit in the ninth inning, with men

GOOD TALES OF THE DIAMOND

Bill Armour, of Toledo, the Most Superstitious Baseball Leader.

THE UMPIRE'S BROOM FIGURES

Some Stories About the Detroit Players and the Tramp They Picked Up.

A. COLONEL'S BIG APPETITE.

BILL ARMOUR, who will manage the Toledo team of the American Association this season, and who formerly had charge at Cleveland and Detroit, is one of the most superstitious men in baseball. It's a known fact that every baseball manager has his superstitions, but Armour has a million, more or less, says an exchange.

It is customary on every American League grounds to have a broom or duster for the umpire's use, to keep the home plate clean. Around the broom or duster hinges one of Armour's strongest superstitions. Generally the umpire throws the broom or duster to the left of the plate, as it's much more convenient, but Armour insists that it be to the right of the plate.

At the beginning of each game Armour will require the umpire to keep the broom to the right of the plate. With the broom to the left, Armour wouldn't give a pinch of snuff for his chance to win. The umpire always carries out Armour's request on this score, as none of the other players, however, for all wise to stunts, and they kept the umpire and Manager Armour busy during the game.

In the American League by shifting the broom whenever they had a chance. One day "Silk" O'Loughlin and for thirteen several New York players with banishment from the game if they didn't allow the broom to remain where he placed it. Most of the league managers usually work their pitchers in turn but not so with Bill Armour. It was always Armour's plan to watch two or three of his men do stunts before the game and the one that looked best to him would be sent in against the opposing team. Armour was of the opinion that often the pitcher stunts in the game was not in fit condition. The preliminary work that he had the twirlers go through was to get a line on them.

One could generally tell how a game was going in which Detroit was one of the contestants by Armour's smile and the position of his hat. With Detroit in the lead he wore one of those sweet smiles that reminds one of a sourette holding the applause, but with Detroit behind, his face was always a study.

When his team was in the lead Armour usually wore his hat well to the back, but when the other team tied him up he sent in against the opposing team. Armour was going in with information as to what some other fellow did fifteen or twenty years ago. The pennant never is won by the playing of men who now are basking in the reflected glory of twenty years ago.

The Detroit ball players were just about as superstitious as their manager. That's nothing unusual, however, as all ball players are superstitious. The following story illustrates the fact very well indeed.

When in Philadelphia, the Detroit team always stopped at the old Continental Hotel. One day last summer, just before the playing of the game, a fellow who looked like a tramp, but who talked as if he had seen better days, dropped into the hotel and inquired for Manager Armour. The Detroit team had been in a losing rut for some time, and when the manager-looking chap informed Armour that he was a mascot and wanted to see the game he was immediately signified. He was placed in the bus with the players and escorted to the park. Detroit won the game. The mascot was taken to the clubhouse and the Tigers won eight more before they lost a game, it being Cleveland in the last series on the Cleveland grounds.

The Detroit mascot took the mascot to St. Louis, where he was all ragged out in a new suit of clothes and taken to Chicago to see the game. The mascot was taken to the season in Chicago on a Sunday, defeating the White Sox, and the tramp picked up in Philly recruited one of the boxes. The way the team worked the stunt. The tramp would always board the special sleeper just as if he was one of the players. He would then be secreted in an upper berth. After the ticket had been presented to the conductor and the men counted the rest was easy for the mascot. The mascot was taken to the Knight of the Road, as Charley O'Leary and others to be used to double up so the tourist could have a berth to him, self.

That baseball stimulates the appetite is a fact which few hotel men or boarding-house keepers will deny. And those who have seen scores of the players come up at the table after a game have often marveled at the capacity tests. It has been claimed that ball players are surpassed in the eating line only by harvest hands. A big ball player can eat a whole hog here's something that tends to show the size of the appetites: Harry Pulliam, when he was running the old Louisville club for Dreyfus, once attempted to put the players on "the European plan." When the bill for the New York hotel property was handed him, Pulliam was told it came to $14.25. "Pete" Dowling's $12 and the rest of the party averaged above $5. There was a switch. The American plan was quickly adopted.

Walter Thornton, a pitcher who started with Anson several years ago, is credited with the highest table average. Thornton, so they say, could "spice any player two lunch choices. A few potatoes and a few other 'sides. One hot summer day he pitched in the city. After working two innings he ate a sandwich, and about the eighth inning he devoured the game by scoring for a piece of pie.

"Babe" Waddell is reported to be a past master at the table. He trains on a nut pie. Carey, who played for Louisville two seasons, also had a huge appetite. The story goes that Carey and the pitcher who was sent out for a walk, returning about midnight, he found Donahue eating a big cigar and drinking a glass of ale. "Fine ale," remarked "Tim." Then there was a scene, but finally Kilroy calmed and decided that he would have a swig, seeing the case was broken. To his surprise, he couldn't find a full bottle. Kilroy scorned again, but Donahue simply remarked: "I had an ale thirst tonight."

Another yarn makes "Tim" Donahue the central figure. Donahue at the time of the story was rooming with "Bazax" Kilroy. A Portsmouth (N. H.) friend sent Kilroy twenty-four quarts of ale, which "Bazax" intended to take to his brother Kilroy brought the measure to his room and went out for a walk. Returning about midnight, he found Donahue eating a big cigar and drinking a glass of ale. "Fine ale," remarked "Tim." Then there was a scene, but finally Kilroy calmed and decided that he would have a swig, seeing the case was broken. To his surprise, he couldn't find a full bottle. Kilroy scorned again, but Donahue simply remarked: "I had an ale thirst tonight."

Tie In Great Football Game. Newcastle, England, April 6.—The final contest in the international series of association football games was played here today between England and Scotland and resulted in a draw. The score standing 1-1. Wales took the championship for the first time in the history of these matches. An enormous crowd of people witnessed the game, it being calculated that 20,000 persons came here from Scotland alone.

PROSPECTS FOR THE AMATEURS

Schedule Opening the Season April 27 and Ending September 7 Adopted.

OFFICIAL BALL AGREED ON.

Many Independent Teams Being Organized and Outlook For the Season Is Bright.

GOOD GAMES NEXT SUNDAY.

AMATEUR baseball in Louisville is on the eve of the most successful season it has ever known. In addition to the Saturday Afternoon League and the Junior City League, now in course of organization, there are more than thirty-five fully equipped teams, made up of the flower of the town lots and representing many of the big league stars of to-morrow. As soon as the weather opens many more teams will be in the field, and all of the large space in and around Louisville will be crowded with ball players and their followers on Saturdays and Sundays.

At the meeting of the Saturday Afternoon League last night at 225 Fourth, the report of the Grounds Committee was unanimously adopted. All games will be played on Dusty Rhodes, Butcherstown, La-

Palle and McMahon, Spring Bank and High School Park.

The Draper & Maynard League ball, upon recommendation of the committee, was adopted. A schedule beginning April 27 and ending the first Saturday in September was approved. With the completion of this business the league is now prepared to enter upon its most successful season.

Manager Marx, of the Y. M. H. A. White Sox, has elected Bradbury, formerly captain of the Indiana University team, to lead his team to victory, with the assistance of such well-known stars as Eady, Reynard, Stengel and Graham the team should be among the leaders.

The Coca-Cola, with George Coder at their head, represent a formidable aggregation. Brown at first, Smith second, Williams shortstop and McAbee third base, will prove a veritable stone wall to the Saturday Afternoon League sluggers.

The Kranz Bros. look awfully good to the wise ones. "Cool Oil" Johnny Fritch, the captain of the druggists, will be assisted by Piper, Brommie and players of equal caliber.

The Crippen-Allen team is reported to be the real bottled up good thing in the league, and reports from their practice indicate that the team that crowds this bunch of cubs the first place will have to play big league ball.

Manager Schwartz, of the Bryant & Stratton team, will give his boys their first real workout this afternoon, when they will line up against the Swifts. He expects an easy victory. Capt. DeHart expects Long, his leading twirler, to surprise the veterans in league circles.

Barrett, the leader of the L. and N. team, has "found" a pitcher who has not performed in this section, whom he predicts will cause the percentages of the sluggers in the league to take a big jump when they face this youngster. Lloyd, Dwan and Krabin, in the infield, look mighty good to the knowing ones.

Manager Sutton, of the Fetters, is ready for the start. With the assistance of Capt. Vance, "Twice" Harper and his all-star team he hopes to make a runaway race of it.

"Big Chief" Leathers, of the Sutcliffe, is ready for the opening game. His mighty right arm conditioned quickly and he expects to have the most successful season of his career, which, of course, means that he will again be the league's leading pitcher.

Manager Middlemore, of the Butcherstown, has called all of his men for practice to-day, and judging from the array of talent that will appear for work he has gathered a bunch that has a good chance to annex the State championship. Boardman, P. Dugan, C. Rubin, Ed. Loeber, 2d base; Scharpenberger 3d base; Tilford, C. S. Ansermeyer, 1. F. Preslar, C. F. Grunewald, C. F.

Dusty Rhodes, with three victories to their credit, will under the leadership of the scout of the Evans Indian team this afternoon. O'Bannon or McBride will be on the slab for the Rhodes team, insuring the patron of this park twirling of the highest order.

Work at LaPalle & McMahon's ground is merrily going on and ere the close of the month the grounds will be in condition for the opening game.

The announcement that Manager Blechman, of the Hirsch Bros., will provide an up-to-date stand at Spring Bank Park will be pleasing news to the fans and fans. Blechman has always produced a winner, and the Hirsch Bros., under his direction, will surely represent all that is best in local circles.

Scenes In Bowling Tournament. Atlantic City, N. J., April 6.—The record score of 1,180, held by Koster and Schultz, of New York, for two-men teams in the present tournament of the National Bowling Association, in this city, was passed today by Nelson and Tuthill, of Brooklyn, who made 1,220. This is the last day of the tournament for two and five-men team events and individual contests. Following are to-day's scores of two, five highest teams in the two-men team events:

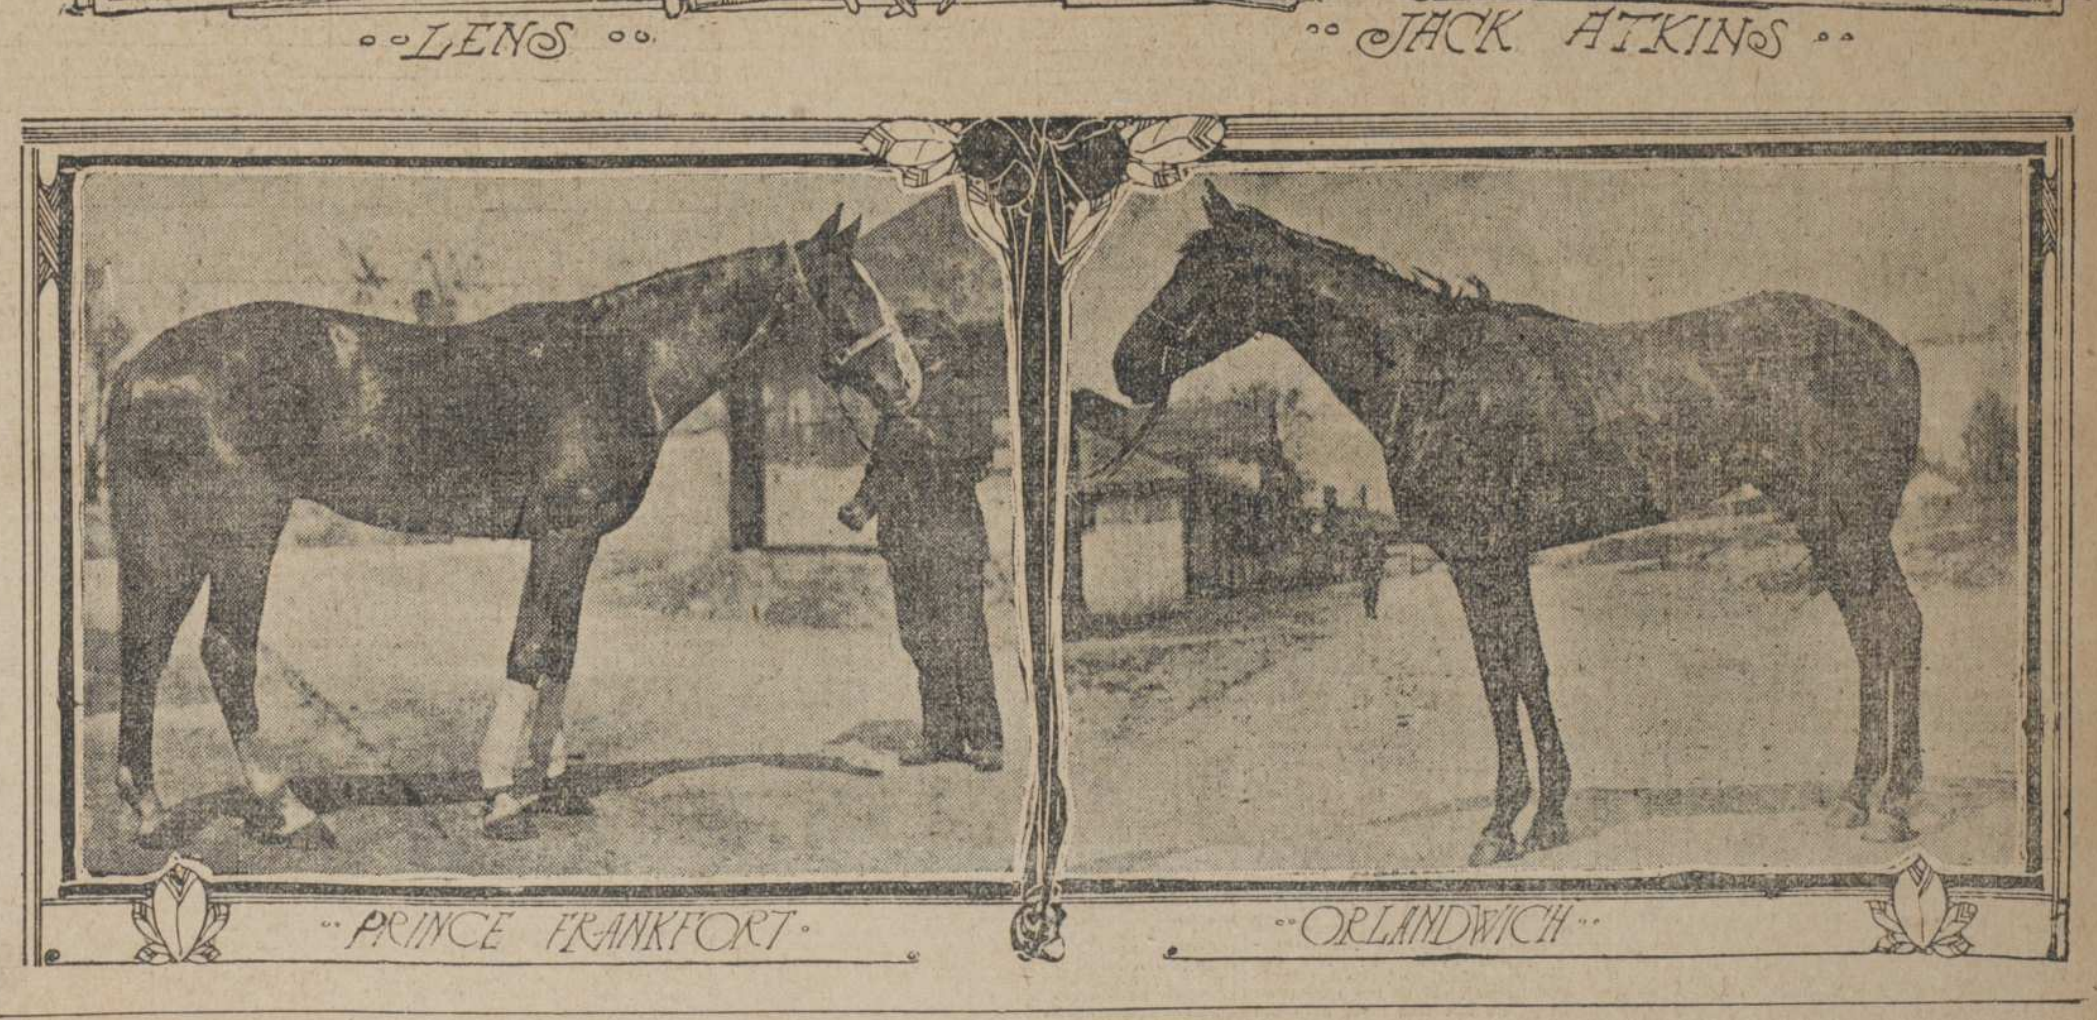

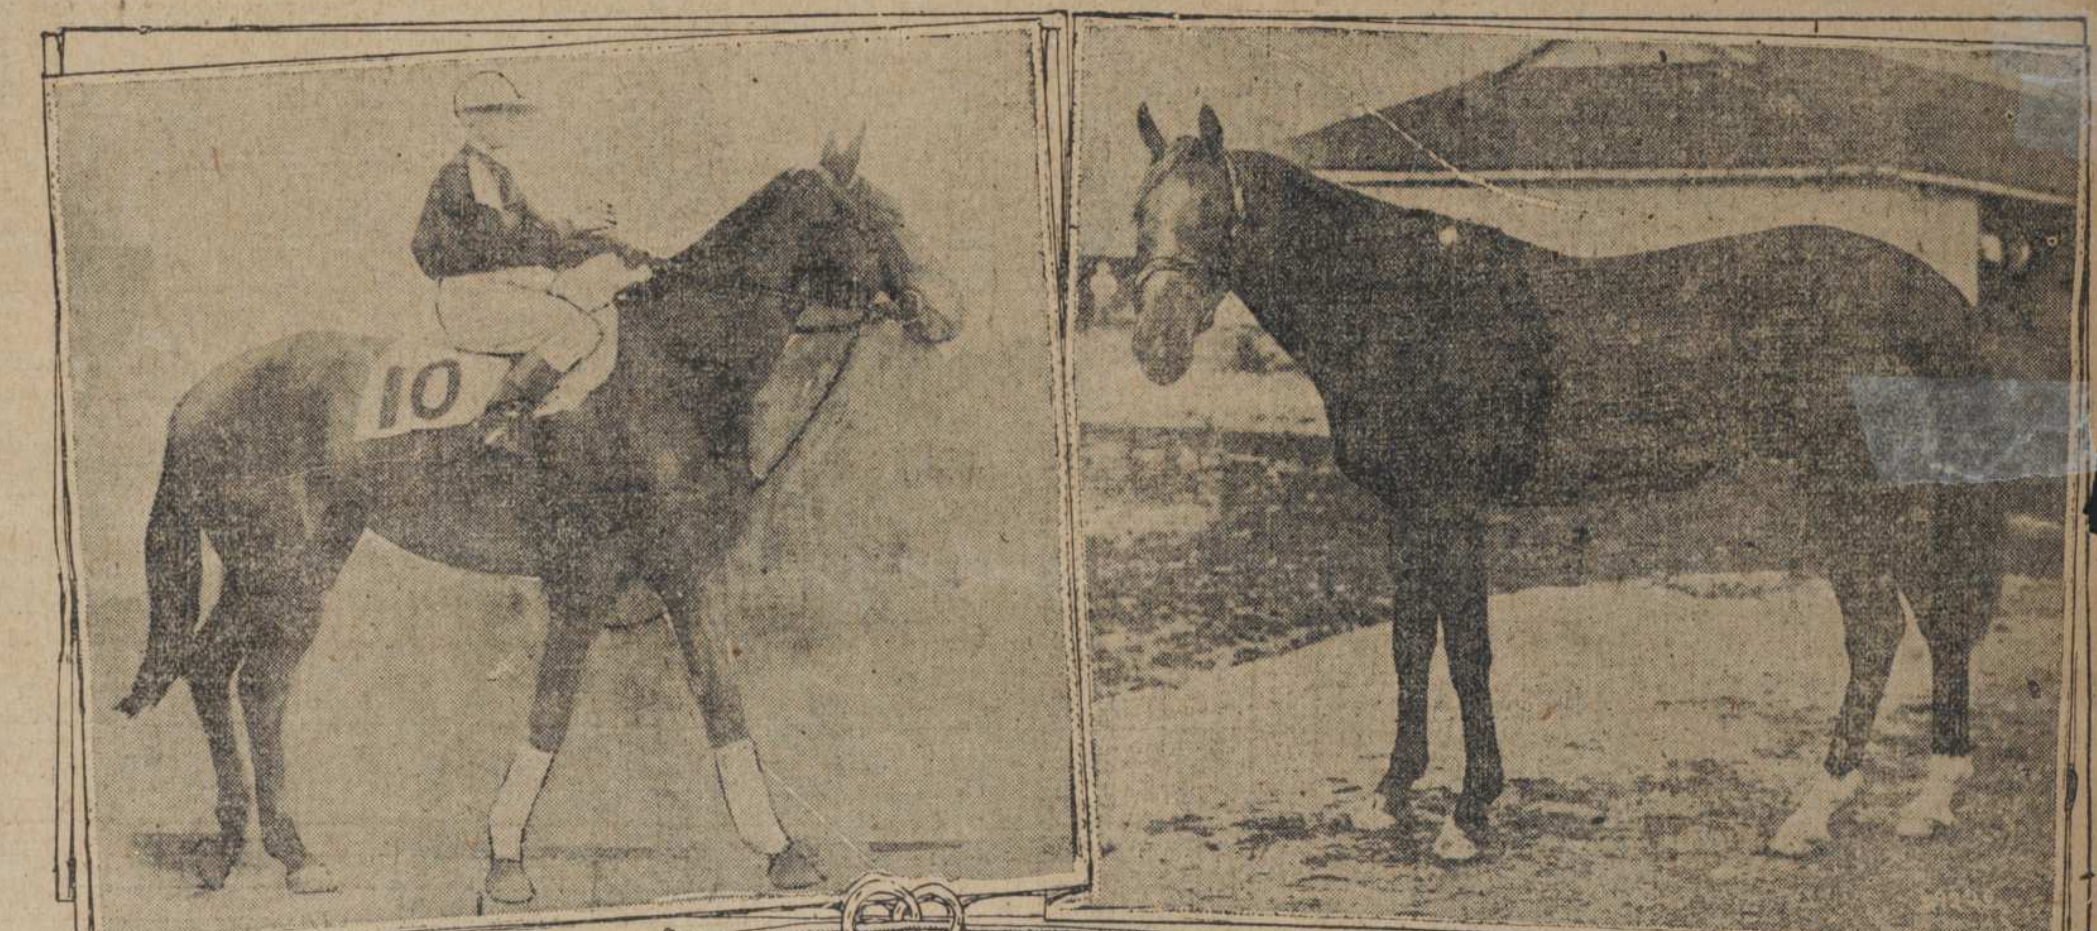

Squad One—Nelson and Tuthill, Brooklyn, 1,220; Ford and Kunath, Newark, 1,148; Kelly and Horan, Philadelphia, 1,109; Coghill and Kearney, Newark, 1,093; Radcl and Brundage, Newark, 1,044.

Squad Two—Warren and Boalick, Washington, 1,068; Robinson and Dinamora, Brooklyn, 1,090; Erdman and Allen, Brooklyn, 1,068; Garrahan and Johnson, Newark, 1,088; Seidel and Giesemann, Brooklyn, 1,063.

Squad Three—Rolls and Shaw, Newark, 1,129; Harris and Griffin, Newark, 1,160; Krickton and Bradley, Baltimore, 1,143; Cohn and Hilds, Brooklyn, 1,079; Brauer and Swager, Baltimore, 1,062.

Squad Four—Voortess and E. Ehler, Brooklyn, 1,187; Burdick and Miller, Washington, 1,183; Steel and Fuls, Newark, 1,116; Johnson and McDonald, Brooklyn, 1,112; Wainwright and Howland, Newark, 1,063.

FOUR PROMINENT CANDIDATES FOR THE COMING KENTUCKY DERBY.

"yes" or "no" to Manager Tom Chivington of the Bourbon club. If Cooley goes to the game, he will be handed the day's game, probably will be handed the managerial harness. Runkle is a good man and knows the game. Cooley is confident he can handle the aggregation with credit. Cooley's advent in Louisville probably will mean the switching of Suter Sullivan to the third sack, as Cooley would take unto himself the initial turn. Cooley will retain his interest in the Topeka club.

Star 3 o'clock yesterday morning, Maj. Patrick Ridge, night chief of police, was shaken up and bruised that he was compelled to remain off duty last night. The Fourth-avenue car stood "dead" at the intersection of the two streets. Motorman S. C. Mercer, of the Greentree car, failed to see it. His car crashed into the other, and the vestibule was badly damaged. With the exception of Maj. Ridge, no one was injured in the accident.

FOR SALE ON LONG AVENUE ON EASY TERMS

We are offering the choice of three new, modern houses on Long avenue, in the delightful suburb of Crescent Hill, on a direct boulevard to Cherokee Park, for $4,000. You cannot build such houses for less than $4,500, and you practically save the cost of the lots, which are each 40x210 feet. The grounds are shaded and the location is delightful, having all the advantages of a city with the fresh air and freedom of the country. You can buy a house here by making SMALL PAYMENT, THE REST TO BE PAID AS RENT.

The houses, while of different appearance outside, are practically duplicated in the interior. They have 7 rooms, besides bathroom, packing-room, maid's room and large attic for storage. Each is finished throughout in oak and hard maple, with exquisitely decorated walls, handsome cabinet mantels, sanitary plumbing, tiled bathroom, wrought fixtures for gas and electric lights; grates for gas, furnace, electric bells, electric switchboard, speaking tubes, concrete lined cellar, large, airy bedrooms, large front and side windows, dining-rooms that get the morning sun, water, etc. The cellars under the entire length of the houses are concrete lined and can be used for laundries. The stairways are broad and handsomely finished, having the convenience of a front and rear entrance. Plenty of closets and spacious attics. The servants' rooms of the front third floor are completely finished. In fact, throughout there has been the most complete and up-to-date improvement.

These houses are located on the line of the driveway between Crescent Hill and Cherokee Park, and this driveway is fast becoming a popular boulevard. These are the only houses on the south side of Long avenue, and the houses across the street are attractive. These houses are in fact real gems, removed from the dirt and noise of the city yet within one block of a great car line.

DIRECTIONS—Take a Crescent Hill car, get off at Stiltz avenue; go one block south. You can't miss them.

OPEN FOR INSPECTION this afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock, or they can be seen any afternoon during the week.

TERMS—You can buy on "Our Easy Plan." Small payment down, the rest as rent. The best chance ever offered to own a modern home on easy terms.

Year's Sport.

RICH OWNERS AND BREEDERS.

Keene, Whitney, Belmont, Hitchcock, Paget, Brady and Others Will Try For Classics.

RACING OUTLOOK IN THE EAST.

MORE than 200 turfmen of high and low degree will race horses on the metropolitan tracks this year. Comparatively few of them are millionaires, but as in seasons gone by, these owners will probably win a large share of the rich stakes and purses that will be hung up by the various racing associations operating under the control of the Jockey Club. As James R. Keene, vice chairman of the Jockey Club, has carried off the honors in this respect for two consecutive seasons, it is generally believed that his powerful stable of thoroughbreds will prove the most successful again this year.

Mr. Keene's famous breeding establishment, Castleton Stud, has turned out many great race horses, and as each season opens in the East the two-year-olds running in the popular colors, white, blue spots, usually attract a great deal of attention. This year Mr. Keene has a lot of highly bred youngsters, sired by Ben Brush, Kingston, St. Leonard, Disguise II, Voter, Commando and other stallions, who are all heavily engaged in stakes of value and importance.

But while Mr. Keene will naturally expect much from these young colts and fillies, his three-year-olds may prove the heaviest winners for the stable. Peter Pan, Ballot, Gabochon, Court Dress, Gretina Green, Grimaldi, Menha, Philander, Pope Joan, Superman, Zamboni and Vell, all of this age, have been entered in many of the big handicaps, as well as being eligible for numerous rich three-year-old stakes.

Mr. Keene will also race the four-year-olds Suffrage, Kuroki and Bohemian, Suffrage, a Voter mare, is a crack sprinter, while Kuroki and Bohemian will be sent after some of the long-distance events. James Rowe will train this formidable stable, which, it is understood, will have second call on the services of Jocko Miller, and will also utilize David Nicol again in important fixtures.

Whitney's Luck May Change.

H. P. Whitney, who was handicapped last season by the hardest kind of ill luck, has a splendid hand of two-year-olds, the get of the mighty Hamburg, Sandringham and other noted sires, who are eligible for the rich stakes to be run at Sheepshead Bay, Gravesend, Belmont Park, Saratoga and Brighton. Mr. Whitney has entered the great mare Arful and the superb four-year-old Burgomaster in the Suburban, but it is a matter of speculation whether Trainer John W. Rogers can get either of them to the post. Both went into retirement last year, supposedly confirmed cripples.

The Whitney four-year-olds of note are Brookdale Nymph, Bat, Ironsides, Paget, and Faithful. The three-year-olds, while the five-year-olds are Tampa, who may race again, and Prince Hamburg, who is not particularly strong in three-year-olds, with Dinna Ken, Killdeer, Killdeer and Killdeer. Whitney's two-year-olds will probably be the regular stable colts, come the horses that will wear the colors of August Belmont. The two-year-olds are said to be an unusually smart lot. They were bred at Mr. Belmont's Nursery Stud, and many of them were wintered at John Whalen, but A. J. Joyner will train the best of these young racers, who are sired by the famous Hastings, Octagon, Henry of Navarre and St. Blaise.

Horner Belmont's Jockey.

The Belmont three-year-olds are pretty well thought of. They are Olanos, Don Enrique, High Glass, Rosemont, Smiling Tom, Curriculum and Wild Dance. The older horses in the string are Blandy, Bridgman, Don Diego, Toledo, Oaklawn, Bivouac, Lord of the Vale and Mount Henry. Horner will probably do the bulk of the saddle work.

The Newcastle Stable, owned by Andrew Miller, a steward of the Jockey Club, is expected to be another formidable factor. Inasmuch as Jockey Miller will ride and Tom Welsh will train a powerful string, including the four-year-olds mares Run, Run, Water and Content, together with the three-year-olds, J. C. Gore, McCarter, Momentum and Saracens, and a well-selected lot of two-year-olds purchased with a lavish hand at the yearling sales last season.

It is generally conceded that T. Hitchcock, Jr., may have the champion three-year-old of the coming campaign in Salvidere, by Belvidere-Salle of Navarre. The gelding was easily the best two-year-old, winning all but one race and accumulating nearly $50,000 in stake winnings last year. He spent the winter at Little Rock, Ark., and arrived recently in the morning to be taken charge of again by John E. Madden, who is part owner.

Strong Stable of Chasers.

Mr. Hitchcock has several other horses of quality in Golf Ball, Toodles, California King, and some choice two-year-olds, as well as a powerful cross-country string, which includes Gold and Plenty, Hyacinth, Ors, Paul Jones, The Claimant, Phantom, and other timber-toppers.

F. R. Hitchcock will race Dandelion, Tancred and a few others, both of which are expected to be good runners to be trained by Madden.

Madden will have a large stable himself. He brings East a most promising lot of three-year-olds bred at Hamburg Place, and will probably find purchasers for some of them. His older horses are East End, Old Colony, Desaiway, Sayon, Sally K., and others who did not amount to much a year ago.

The death of Water Pearl will deprive Sydney Paget of a chance to win some of the best three-year-old stakes. But he has the Gold Ring colt, Charlie, in his stable, and the five-year-old Carnegie, who will be prepared to race.

Paget is in partnership with E. R. Thomas, now known as the three-year-olds, and will race a good string of two-year-olds, which will be carried by Go Between, in whom Shiloh will race the crack sprinter, Hall-fax, Diamond, and others, while his son, William, will also be assigned a useful stable.

Rosen's Owners Hopeful.

Horsemen hold the belief at present that the big stable controlled by Frank J. Farrell, David C. Johnson and T. D. Sullivan will prove a winner from the outset. Frank Weil will train about twenty-five horses and Jack Martin will do the heavy-duty riding, with little Beckman also under contract.

Rosen, the champion sprinter, is the star of the string. Then come the four-year-old Dr. Gardner, who may capture one of the big handicaps, the good mare Whimsical, who will be properly trained for the first time in her career; Grapple, a high-class sailing player; Clark Griffin, a Kinley Mack four-year-old, who is a vastly improved horse; Handarra, the three-year-old Senator Clay and Tim O'Toole.

The Autopiano

A PIANO AND PIANOPLAYER
IN ONE CASE

The Greatest Combination in the World for the Money.

And Any One Can Play It.

We searched the United States for a combination Piano and Player that we could sell for $500 and at the same time back it with our reputation, and after thoroughly testing each and every one decided on the AUTOPIANO as the greatest combination in the world for the money—a combination that we can honestly and conscientiously guarantee in every way.

When one can purchase a combination Piano like the AUTOPIANO, which may be played by every member of the family, it is possible to make each and everyone of us a musician. It requires no musical knowledge to quickly learn to play this instrument, and familiarity with all classes of music is sure to follow.

The AUTOPIANO is made in one of the largest, most modern and complete factories in the country. Each instrument is made in its entirety at this factory. The Piano possesses a distinct individuality founded on a scientifically correct scale.

The Piano

Tone This Piano has a deep, full, mellow tone, so much sought after by refined musical tastes.

Touch The finish and regulation of the action and the keys of the Piano are responsible for the touch, and it is so regulated that it is a revelation to many pianists.

Case Hardwood case, cross-banded and double veneered inside and out; beautiful in design.

Durability Every possible care is taken in the manufacture of these instruments, and each one carries an ironclad 5-year guarantee.

The Player

Tuning A remarkable advantage in these instruments is the fact that the tuning can be done without removing any part of the playing mechanism.

Expression Levers Are in the most suitable position for the hands and are invisible until it is desired to play with the perforated rolls.

Pedals The pedals can be lowered or raised without effort or the necessity of leaving a sitting posture. When raised they are invisible.

Piano Keys The keys of the Piano, by means of a stop arranged out of sight, can either be kept perfectly motionless while using the playing device, or allowed to depress as each note is struck.

Repairs The Autopiano will not require frequent repairing, because the mechanism is so simple and perfect that the services of an expert will seldom, if ever, be required.

Autopiano with music roll ready for playing.

A FACT.

Its various points of superiority are briefly reviewed in this advertisement, but A TRIAL OF THE INSTRUMENT ITSELF will do more to convince one of its merits than can any amount of talk in type.

Music Rolls for the Autopiano.

We maintain the largest library of music in the South, and our plan is so cheap that one can enjoy our entire library at but a small cost. Be sure and ask about our library plan, the only one of its kind offered by any music house in the United States.

Purchase by Mail.

Pamphlets and literature describing the AUTOPIANO more fully will be sent upon application. Our mail order department is so arranged as to give prompt and satisfactory service. We sell hundreds of Pianos in this way—Try us on this.

We are Sole Representatives for the Autopiano for Kentucky and Southern Indiana.

You will also find here the LARGEST PIANO STOCK IN THE SOUTH. The Pianos we sell are known around the world for their SUPERIORITY.

and about a dozen two-year-olds, some of whom have been named George Constable, Jim Gaffney, James B. Brady, Ben Stone, Confucius and Annie C. Diamond Jim Brady and his trainer, Matt Allen, are hopeful that they will win the $50,000 Accountant, the $25,000 Fountain, the $10,000 Olanos, the $5,000 Killdeer, the $5,000 Killdeer and a half dozen other stakes. It is believed, with a couple of seasons' racing, they will be a couple of the best of the summer begins, as he is always on the lookout for good material with which to exploit his red, white and blue silks.

Garth's Big Undertaking.

William Garth will not only the Rainey Stable, which includes De Munda, Horace E. Sir Wilfred and numerous two-year-olds, but also about forty others, the property of David Dunlop, C. C. Smithson and himself, which will include the three-year-olds Orphan Lad and Lady Vera, the four-year-olds mares Run, Run, Water and Content, together with the three-year-olds, J. C. Gore, McCarter, Momentum and Saracens, and a well-selected lot of two-year-olds purchased with a lavish hand at the yearling sales last season.

It is generally conceded that T. Hitchcock, Jr., may have the champion three-year-old of the coming campaign in Salvidere, by Belvidere-Salle of Navarre. The gelding was easily the best two-year-old, winning all but one race and accumulating nearly $50,000 in stake winnings last year. He spent the winter at Little Rock, Ark., and arrived recently in the morning to be taken charge of again by John E. Madden, who is part owner.

Strong Stable of Chasers.

Mr. Hitchcock has several other horses of quality in Golf Ball, Toodles, California King, and some choice two-year-olds, as well as a powerful cross-country string, which includes Gold and Plenty, Hyacinth, Ors, Paul Jones, The Claimant, Phantom, and other timber-toppers.

F. R. Hitchcock will race Dandelion, Tancred and a few others, both of which are expected to be good runners to be trained by Madden.

Madden will have a large stable himself. He brings East a most promising lot of three-year-olds bred at Hamburg Place, and will probably find purchasers for some of them. His older horses are East End, Old Colony, Desaiway, Sayon, Sally K., and others who did not amount to much a year ago.

The death of Water Pearl will deprive Sydney Paget of a chance to win some of the best three-year-old stakes. But he has the Gold Ring colt, Charlie, in his stable, and the five-year-old Carnegie, who will be prepared to race.

Paget is in partnership with E. R. Thomas, now known as the three-year-olds, and will race a good string of two-year-olds, which will be carried by Go Between, in whom Shiloh will race the crack sprinter, Hall-fax, Diamond, and others, while his son, William, will also be assigned a useful stable.

Rosen's Owners Hopeful.

Horsemen hold the belief at present that the big stable controlled by Frank J. Farrell, David C. Johnson and T. D. Sullivan will prove a winner from the outset. Frank Weil will train about twenty-five horses and Jack Martin will do the heavy-duty riding, with little Beckman also under contract.

Rosen, the champion sprinter, is the star of the string. Then come the four-year-old Dr. Gardner, who may capture one of the big handicaps, the good mare Whimsical, who will be properly trained for the first time in her career; Grapple, a high-class sailing player; Clark Griffin, a Kinley Mack four-year-old, who is a vastly improved horse; Handarra, the three-year-old Senator Clay and Tim O'Toole.

planned to bring the colt and other high-class horses to the Eastern tracks. Senator Patrick H. McCarron is interested with M. L. Hayman in a valuable lot of race horses that will be trained by Roger Minton, John Lowe and possibly R. E. Watkins. Little England, who has gained much experience at the winter track, will do the bulk of the riding. There are many two-year-olds in the barn, also in the three-year-olds Leonard, Joe, Hayman, Master Lester, John J. Rogers and others in the older division.

Many Seasoned Horses.

John Higgins will train and "Puddin'" McDaniell will ride again for H. R. Duryea, whose seasoned horses are Dreamer, Chaseaway, Prince Fortunatus, Royal Scepter, Ben Bar, Prince Hampton and others. Mr. Duryea bought a number of valuable yearlings last season, and will try for the most important stakes. P. J. Dwyer, whose trainer is Dick Miller, will have a small stable, as usual, including Albert P. Red Friar, Jennie McCab, Quorum and Bluestone, and a few two-year-olds.

David Gideon's best horse is the four-year-old Astronome, good in the mud, while Herodotus and Prince Frederick are fair players. Gideon will make another try at the two-year-old stakes, but of late he has met with unusually poor luck.

J. H. McCormick, who did well at New Orleans, comes North with Grenade, Royal River, Monet, Mary Morris and other campaigners who will bear watchful eyes. McCormick has a call on Jockey Garner's services.

Frank Gill, the leading winners at the Crescent City, will race Jugger, Judge Post, Sir Toddington and Gold in the three-year-olds. He also has the three-year-old Dan Buhre and the four-year-old Hermitage. They will be trained by J. I. Smith and ridden by Joe Nover.

Smith will also handle the Kentworth stable's excellent mares, Coy Maid.

Cells Has Large Stable.

Louis Cells has planned to race on metropolitan tracks on a large scale. He owns the three-year-olds Conville, Marathon, Clara Huron, Ben Strong, Woolstaple, Delectable and more than a dozen two-year-olds. The stable will be trained by Henry McDaniel, a veteran. Cells has all kinds of money invested in Western race tracks, and at one time last year he controlled twelve books in Gotham betting rings.

Cells, another bookmaker, who cleaned up $50,000 at New Orleans this winter, will race Tom Dolan, Minnie Adams and a lot of two-year-olds in the North. His trainer is W. E. Phillips, and his Jockey Nicol, C. R. Ellison, the well-known plunger, will come East with Yankee Girl, the winner of the City Park Derby; Grace Larsen, James Reddick, Lady Ellison, Lady Navarre, Lancastrian and Dr. Sprull, all trained by E. P. Brainerd. E. P. Brainerd will operate again with Ed News, Charles Q. Gates, Thon, who will have a call on both Willie Knapp and W. McIntyre, while William Henley will train.

A. L. Aste, the bootblack king, not only has some high-class two-year-olds, but also Alvin, Botanist, Gold Lady and Sorapiano. The Keene brothers, J. O. and G. H., who once had Jockey Radtke, will race in the East almost exclusively after a successful campaign on the coast. G. S. Long will make a bid for the three-year-old events with Arctic and the Suburban with Sir Huon, who won the Commonwealth last year.

Oxnard's Stable Compact.

H. T. Oxnard's Albemarle Stable, trained by William Brooks, will be represented by the three-year-old mares Bohemia and Santa Catalina, the three-year-old filly Mania, and many two-year-olds. James Arthur's horses are Happy Jack, Lady Charade, Little Elkin, Meadowbreeze and Sanction. James McLaughlin's best campaigner is the gray Faraday horse Oxford. R. T. Wilson, Jr., will have a large string, as usual, handled by Tom Healey. The six-year-old Poly Sparker will race again, also the three-year-olds Adoration, Thracian and Red River. The Wilson two-year-olds are high priced and are said to give much promise.

Barney Schreiber, one of the biggest breeders and owners in the West, will send his best horses here. Last year he sold Horace E. for $3,000. Dr. Gardner for $15,000 and a half interest in Nealon for $15,000, so that he regards the East as a most profitable market. Schreiber has among the older horses in his barn Deutschland, Earl Rogers, Jack Atkins, Pinkerton, Sainado, Tony Faust and others. While there are more than twenty five two-year-olds, the best being the get of Sain and Hancockburn, H. R. Brand is Schreiber's trainer. With Dugan and Schade the Jockeys.

J. E. Seagram will race two good three-year-olds in Palestine and Mainchance with Sir Ralph, Cloten and Inferno the best of the others. His purchases at the yearling sales last season were extensive. Joseph E. Vintner, who goes in for the cross-country sport, will race Sir Lynne, wood on the flat again, Callie, Bulwark, Coligny, Dromedary, El Machulo, Comandante, Patagonian and others to be sent over the jumps again.
